VISITED THE QUEEN.

Li Hung Chang Called on Queen Victoria.

London, Aug. 5.—Li Hung Chang and his suit went by special train to Portsmouth in order to cross the Solent to the Isle of Wight and visit the queen at Osborne. He was received at Portsmouth by a number of distinguished naval officers and others, and a salute of nineteen guns was fired when he boarded the royal yacht Alberta which was in waiting. Upon leaving Portsmouth the yacht made a detour and gave the distinguished traveller a view of the large fleet of warships assembled in those waters and also permitted him to see about as large and attractive a fleet of pleasure craft as ever assembled in the Solent. The Chinese statesman was saluted by the fleet and continued on his way to Trinity wharf, Cowes, where he was received by the prince of Wales, who escorted him to Osborne. The marquis of Salisbury, who presented Li Hung Chang to her majesty, had preceded the Chinese envoy to the Isle of Wight.

VERY HOT WEATHER.

One Hundred Degrees in the Shade at St. Paul.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Today promises to be a scorcher in the city. Twelve persons succumbed to the heat which enveloped this city yesterday. Two or three of these, at least, are not expected to recover. It was the hottest day so far this year, the signal service thermometer registering 94 in the afternoon. Thermometers on the street registered four and five degrees more than that on the signal service tower.

Chicago was not the only town where the heat record was broken. Several towns in the western states and also in the Mississippi valley reported the highest temperature of the year. Prostrations were numerous. Out door work in a number of towns had to be suspended. The hottest place in the United States yesterday was St. Paul, where the mercury crawled up until it rested

OVER PRECIPICE.

Tragic Death of Phillip Abbott of Milwaukee.

Boston, Aug. 5.—A dispatch received at the Boston agency of the Wisconsin Central Railroad Company yesterday evening, stated that Phillips Abbott, assistant attorney of the Wisconsin Central railway was fatally injured yesterday by falling over a precipice. Mr. Abbott was a son of President Edwin Abbott of Chicago. His relatives are now in Milwaukee where his office is. He is well known in Boston.

HILL FIELDS STOCKED.

Milwaukee, Aug. 5.—The news of the tragic death of Phillip Abbott was a great shock to all who knew him. He was one of the best men in this city. Mr. Abbott, who was a great student of geology and who had been prospecting for some time, was climbing the Milwaukee on July 25 in company with Professor C. C. Pay of the University of Wisconsin, and Dr. J. H. Rogers, a railway friend of Chicago, and another friend whose name is not known. They were going to the hills near the summit of the mountains about Banff, and they were to make headquarters at the Laegan, which is thirty-four miles west of Banff Hot Springs and about 856 miles west of Winnipeg. In the heart of the morning he started on his excursion from that point at intervals of a few weeks, and it was upon one of these long journeys that Mr. Abbott met his death.

The deceased was 20 years of age and was the eldest son of Edwin H. Abbott, who for many years has been at the head of the Wisconsin Central Company. He attended Harvard college and law school and the law school Mr. Abbott stood in the front rank. He graduated from Harvard college and law school as the holder of the very highest honors at the head of his class in each branch. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and had charge of many men in the school and had charge of the Harvard Monthly, one of the important literary magazines of the law school and was editor-in-chief of the Harvard Law Review, the most coveted honor given to a law student.

Our Great Half Price Alteration Sale

Is a wonderfully successful sale that is being favorably spoken of at every turn and keenly felt by competition. The carpenters are already in upon, and have taken possession of a large portion of the first and second floors, and the stocks are being pushed back into limited space; the deafening ring of the hammer, and the accumulating lumber, is certainly a confusing situation. Is it any wonder then that we are more than anxious to push our elegant goods, at almost any price, out into the masses of the people who require them? The success of yesterday's sales only spurs us on to greater efforts for today.

Men, make no mistake; what serves to cap the climax of Bargain-giving is before you. You never had such chances—may never have them again! The finished output of the country's foremost wholesale tailors below cost of production, is indeed a rare opportunity.

$30 Suits $15.00 | $20 Suits $10 | $10 Suits $5.00
$25 Suits $12.50 | $15 Suits $7.50 | $8 Suits $4.00

The greatest value in this great sale is on our finest Men's Suits—that is, the $30.00 and $25.00 garments—because these goods have always been sold at a close margin, and then in a case of necessity like this where we are compelled to cut the price right in two, every reasonable man must acknowledge that they are cheap because he knows the clothes are good.

You men, who have always patronized high-priced custom tailors, here and just see where you can save big money in your tailor bills.

A small fire in the coal bunkers of the steamer Samuel Langell, while at Gray's dock, at the foot of Garfield avenue, caused an alarm from box 57 shortly before 3 o'clock this morning. ERICSON TURNS UP.

The Missing Man Quietly Returns to the City.

Oscar Ericson, whose unexplained absence from home for the past few weeks has caused his friends so much anxiety, on Monday evening waiked unannounced into the home of Peter L. Rasmussen, 113 St. Croix avenue, where he was boarding at the time of his mysterious disappearance. His appearance occasioned much surprise and rejoicing.

After the first greetings were over, Ericson, whose health has much improved in the meantime, in a few words told the story of his wanderings. Feeling tired and run down, he had been thought of himself as a friend who is a farmer near Matowah, Minn., and in his friend's place he had gone, and there he had been rusticated ever since. It is needless to say that his friends are overjoyed that their fears on account of the missing man have been proven groundless.

Will Open Next Month.
Manager L. N. Scott, who makes the bookings for the Lyceum in Duluth and the leading theaters in St. Paul and Minneapolis, came up from St. Paul today. He says the Lyceum's first attraction will open in the middle of September. The outlook for the coming theatrical season, especially the early part, is not very bright.

The Flower Show.
The premium list for the flower show to be given by the Associated Charities on Aug. 13 and 14 will be out in a few days. It will be an excellent one, and will be such as to offer fine inducements for competition in the show. It is expected, and with good reason, that this will be the last flower show that has been given. Interest in the last one was quite active, but there is even more this year.

KNOTTY

A Perplexing Problem is Now Before the Equalization Board.

Does Not Know How to Correct Value of the Mining Properties.

Personal Property Assessments Were Considered
at Today's Meeting.

The board of equalization met this morning, but after a very brief session in which little of any importance was done adjourned to 2 o'clock tomorrow. It was decided to notify all of the mining organizations which have property returned in the assessment rolls that the question of increasing the valuations on this class of property will be taken up next Monday morning. It has been intimated that all of the mines will be represented when this matter of valuations is taken up. If so it will probably be impossible to complete these investigations in one day. The entire attention of the board will be given them until they are disposed of.

There is not the slightest doubt that the returned valuations will be materially increased for they are in almost all instances far below the real worth of the mines. The best method of getting at a fair valuation is what is now troubling the board. It seems to be a decidedly knotty problem, and so far no satisfactory solution has been suggested.

The list of mining properties returned with their valuations as fixed by the assessors is as follows:

Valuation.	Personal Property.
Hale	$20,000
Kamawha	40
Cincinnati	30,000

PERSONAL PROPERTY.
Most of the time of the board this morning was occupied in the equalization of the assessment on personal property. Live stocks received the due share of attention. The board has divided the districts of the county into two classes. One includes the ranges and the other the agricultural districts. In the former the valuation is placed considerably higher than in the latter from the fact that a better grade of domestic animals are used in the woods and about the mine than on the farms.

Several reductions were made in the returns from the ranges district, while those from the agricultural districts remain unchanged.

The average valuations on this class of property as corrected are as follows:

Range	Farming District
1-year-old horses	$17
2-year-old horses	20
3-year-old horses	40
1-year-old cattle	8
2-year-old cattle	12
3-year-old cattle	18
Working oxen	28
Other cattle	14
Hogs	2

Average on some household articles also vary and are made higher on the ranges. S. P. White was before the board representing Louis Finkelsch, of St. Paul. Some time ago Finkelsch filed an objection to the valuation of $900 placed on his stock of goods on the range. The value of the goods was admitted, but the owner held that they were not brought into the county until about the middle of May this year and were not subject to taxation. The board held that it could not decide this question and that it should be referred to the state auditor. This morning Mr. White withdrew the objection and will present it to the state auditors.

This Great Alteration Sale

AT.....FREIMUTH'S

The Bargains are growing and with them the crowds. This opportunity of money-saving is a boon to many a household. Every dollar saved counts as much as a dollar made. The question with us is not how great the loss—it is how much we can sell. Our store is overcrowded with goods; the dust and dirt flying around from the work that is being done now is ruining a great part of it; our new fall stock will need all the room we can give it—these are all strong reasons for us to rather sacrifice the goods than to have them lay on the shelves.

SCOTT

The Oconto Major is Nominated For Governor of Wisconsin.

Six Ballots Taken By the Republican Convention to Settle It.

Senator Thurston Made a Brief Address to the Delegates.

Milwaukee, Aug. 6.—The Republican state convention reconvened at 10:15 this morning, when the roll call of delegates was resumed for second speeches. During the progress of the call for second speeches, Senator Thurston was introduced and made a brief address. The speaker, who is a Wisconsin man, was tendered an ovation by the delegates.

The first ballot for governor resulted as follows: Edward Scott, 249; Robert M. La Follette, 202; Emil Baensch, 83; Bradford, 31; Eugene Elliott, 21; C. E. Rasmussen, 6; Ness, 2. The second ballot resulted: Scott, 249; La Follette, 202; Baensch, 82; Elliott, 21; Rasmussen, 6; Bradford, 30. The third ballot was as follows: Scott, 249; La Follette, 200; Baensch, 82; Elliott, 21; Bradford, 31; Rasmussen, 6. The fourth ballot resulted: Scott, 249; La Follette, 200; Baensch, 82; Elliott, 21; Bradford, 31; Rasmussen, 6. The fifth ballot resulted: Scott, 249; La Follette, 200; Baensch, 82; Elliott, 21; Bradford, 31; Rasmussen, 6. The sixth ballot resulted: Scott, 249; La Follette, 200; Baensch, 82; Elliott, 21; Bradford, 31; Rasmussen, 6.

After the fifth ballot, a motion was adopted to adjourn until the first of September. The adjournment was taken at 11:15. The delegates were then informed that the convention would reconvene at 10:15 on the first of September.

THE GEORGIA POPULISTS.
All Candidates But One For Governor Withdraw.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 6.—The largest and most enthusiastic state convention the Populists of Georgia have ever held was assembled today in the hall of the house of the state capitol. Delegates have been arriving for the past two days and the streets this morning were crowded with the red badges of the party. The presence of Thomas Watson, the party's nominee for vice-president, added to the enthusiasm and a slight temperature as that of the weather. The preliminary session was held at 9 o'clock, presided over by the action of the convention on the gubernatorial question. Judge James R. Hines and W. L. Peak, the candidates of the middle class, the readers flatterly refused to accept the use of their names for the office of the Rev. J. B. Gambrell, the Populist-Prohibition candidate.

Thomas E. Watson called the convention to order at 11:15. After minutes of time, Mr. Watson made no speech, but the dropping of his gavel was the signal for the delegates to cheer. The delegates were then informed that the convention would reconvene at 10:15 on the first of September.

STORM AT CLEVELAND.
Bad Storm of Lightning, Wind and Rain.

Cleveland, Aug. 6.—Following the excessive heat of this morning a terrific storm of lightning, wind and rain came up this afternoon, playing havoc with telegraphic communication. The rain fell in torrents and the lightning was almost continuous. For a time all telegraphic communication with points west of this city was cut off. The wind reached a velocity of forty miles an hour, and nearly half an inch of rain fell within the space of thirty minutes.

Just before the storm, the thermometer reached 92, the highest point of the summer. Shortly after the storm a rain or was in circulation that an excursion steamer had been canceled at the foot of Alabama street. Investigation showed, however, that only a small yacht had been up and that no lives were lost.

CITIZEN LAW ENFORCED.
Denver, Colo., Aug. 6.—Alexander Heald, president of the Boys and Girls National Home and Employment association, addressed the sheriff's national convention here today. He urged the enforcement of laws against juvenile delinquency, especially through the adoption of a resolution endorsing the curfew law.

COTTON BROKERS SUSPECTED.
New York, Aug. 6.—Stephen R. Post and S. M. Meisler were announced to the cotton brokers' association here today. The association has been holding a convention in New Orleans, and its suspension is only temporary.

STATED BY FAULKNER.

Democratic Chairman Makes a Hopeful Prophecy.

Washington, Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.) Chairman Faulkner of the Democratic congressional campaign committee is now of the opinion that there will be no fusion between the Populists and the Republicans in any of the Southern states. He claims to have advised recently that while the Populists may not flock with the Democrats in that section it is a certainty that they will not give Republicans support either in the national campaign or in the various congressional districts south of Mason and Dixon's line.

The chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, it may be recalled, is a judge who has been a fusionist in the past. He has been a fusionist in the past, but he is now a Populist.

PINGREE NUNIMATED.
Detroit's Mayor Named For Governor of Michigan.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 6.—The second day's session of the Republican state convention was called to order at 10 o'clock. The motion to divide the St. Clair county, giving Bliss and Pingree each eleven votes, was adopted by a large majority. A number of seconding speeches were then made and the convention proceeded to take a ballot for governor. The first ballot resulted: Pingree, 339; Bliss, 286; O'Donnell, 52; Wheeler, 47; Conant, 22; Altman, 16. The second ballot resulted: Pingree, 339; Bliss, 286; O'Donnell, 52; Wheeler, 47; Conant, 22; Altman, 16. The third ballot resulted: Pingree, 339; Bliss, 286; O'Donnell, 52; Wheeler, 47; Conant, 22; Altman, 16. The fourth ballot resulted: Pingree, 339; Bliss, 286; O'Donnell, 52; Wheeler, 47; Conant, 22; Altman, 16. The sixth ballot resulted: Pingree, 339; Bliss, 286; O'Donnell, 52; Wheeler, 47; Conant, 22; Altman, 16.

NEW YORK STOCKS.
The Bears Pursued a Vigorous Campaign Today.

New York, Aug. 6.—The drop in London prices for Americans, extending to a point in St. Paul and 1/2 per cent in Louisville & Nashville, gave the traders an initiative and accordingly a demonstration against prices was met at the market. Arbitrage houses were also active. Northwest declined 1/2 to 3/4, Rock Island, Louisville & Nashville, and various other shares important fractions. Sugar lost 1/2 per cent despite a strong market for foreign sugar and a local advance in the refined product.

The pressure against the list continued throughout the day, and although the offerings were light, but little support was evident. Current prices were in some instances the lowest for a long time past, with acute weakness in some of the lower priced stocks, notably Chicago Great Western, which declined 3/4 per cent to 5 on the distressing news situation. The speculative market was active, but the market was not in a position to make a strong market for foreign sugar and a local advance in the refined product.

The market developed considerable activity during the second hour, and most of the active shares moved 1/2 to 3/4 higher. The bears, however, returned to the attack with renewed vigor in the late part of the hour, with Rarigton bearing the brunt of the selling. The progress of the market was in a falling line, and the market was not in a position to make a strong market for foreign sugar and a local advance in the refined product.

CAMPBELL DEALERS FAIL.
Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—Robert H. Boyd, Milton Harley and George C. Boyd, captured under the name of Boyd, Harley & Co., have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. The firm is dated Aug. 5 and was filed today. Counsel for the firm said: The liquidators are $20,000 and the firm have on their books upward of $20,000 but owing to the business depression and the number of failures a number of these will doubtless be uncollectible. In addition to this they have a considerable amount of stock. No judgments have been confessed.

THE MISSOURI DEMOCRATS.
Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 6.—It was nearly 10 o'clock when the Democratic state convention was called to order. The hall was again packed and the hot was fearful. Nominations to fill out the remainder of the state ticket were made as follows: For auditor, J. M. Seibert, of Cape Girardeau, on the first ballot; for state treasurer, F. L. Pitts, of Monroe, by acclamation.

WILL NOT ENDORSE HIM.
Kansas City, Aug. 6.—A special to The Star from Perry, Okla., says: Rev. J. Y. Callahan, the Methodist preacher, who has been a Populist for the last eight months, has been nominated for congress to succeed Hon. Dennis Flynn, will hardly receive the endorsement of the Democrats. It is now stated, will nominate a third ticket, and J. W. Johnson, of Minneapolis, Aug. 6.—An attempt was made to break down last night at midnight and 80 men are thrown out of employment. The summer day is believed, will be only for a short time, is owing to the cold.

SPED WORKS CLOSED.
Cleveland, Aug. 6.—The Johnstown steel works closed down last night at midnight and 80 men are thrown out of employment. The summer day is believed, will be only for a short time, is owing to the cold.

KANSAS

Senator Leedy Nominated For Governor By the Populist Convention.

Judge Frank Doster Is Made the Choice For Chief Justice.

The Democrats Still Unable to Arrange a Plan of Fusion.

Athens, Kas., Aug. 6.—The nomination of Senator Leedy for governor at 2 o'clock this morning left the delegates to the Populist convention in a mood for quick work today, and they began at 9 o'clock. United States Senator or Professor opened the session with an address advocating the fusion of the anti-slavery forces on a basis of votes cast for all offices.

The convention quickly got down to the consideration of the resolution committee's report, and without much ado the report was adopted as presented. The resolutions endorse the St. Louis platform and Bryan and Watson. They congratulate Kansas that since Populists have been in politics many good laws have been secured; condemn the Republican cause of conservatism for failing to pass bills sent from the Populist party; demanding that officers carry out the will of the people, that the attorney general enforce the statutes limiting corporations to the business made by their charters and that railroads should do no other business than common carriers; condemn favoritism to shippers by railroads favor a maximum freight law; demand restoration of convict labor; demand reduction of public schools; demand that the supreme court be made independent of the legislature; demand that the people, clear its dock.

A telegram was ordered sent to the Populist convention in session in Texas, Georgia, Nebraska and Alabama, informing them of the endorsement of Bryan and Watson. The endorsement committee was not ready to report, and the rules were suspended while the convention proceeded with the nomination of a chief justice. Four names were presented, Judge Frank Doster, finally being selected by a unanimous vote. The nominee expressed his thanks in a brief speech and a recess until 2 o'clock was taken.

THE KANSAS DEMOCRATS.
They Took an Adjournment Until This Afternoon.

Kansas City, Aug. 6.—A special to The Star from Hutchinson, Kas., says: This morning delegates to the state convention were not early. Judge Atwood, ex-Senator Martin and W. P. Billard, three of the members of the conference committee, sent to Abilene to confer with the Populists on fusion, returned to Hutchinson in the first train and were immediately surrounded by anxious Democrats. When the conference announced no agreement had been reached, the disappointment was keen. The sentiment in favor of a rigid resistance to the encroachment of the Populists upon the Democratic Bryan and Watson ticket, almost immediately to a another boom and everywhere Democrats expressed themselves as being emphatically opposed to carrying on the negotiations except on the original propositions of the Democrats to adopt under the Populist state ticket.

Chairman Jackson called the convention to order at 10 o'clock. Scarcely more than a hundred delegates were present. Ex-Senator Martin made a report of the conference committee and said that he and his associates had returned to report progress and held the conference until the morning. He suggested that the convention take an adjournment to 2 o'clock and await results. The motion was carried.

Just after adjournment of the evening session a telegram was received by E. B. Murphy from J. C. Johnson, stating that the Populist convention would be held in the morning in favor of the full endorsement of the Democratic electors, and that this report would be made to the Populist convention later in the day.

A GOVERNMENT DEFEAT.
London, Aug. 6.—The government suffered a defeat in the house of lords today when the Irish land bill was being considered in the committee stage. The dissent of Viscount Valentia, who said that the several classes of each holding should be considered, and that the bill should be based on the assumption that all the improvements were made or acquired by the landlord. The government refused to accept the amendment but it was adopted by the house of lords 12 ayes to 6 nays.

A FUSION NOMINATION.
Parkerburg, W. Va., Aug. 6.—The Fourth district Populist convention met here this morning and nominated W. B. Pendleton, of Roanoke county, for congress. He is the Democratic nominee. He has been here for several days working the fusion. Four counties left the convention and held a bolting convention.

HOT AT PITTSBURGH.
Pittsburgh, Aug. 6.—The heat record for 1896 was broken today, the mercury reaching 94 degrees. The day was one of the most oppressive of the season. There was much suffering among mill workers and many of the mills were compelled to shut down.

STEEL WORKS CLOSED.
Cleveland, Aug. 6.—The Johnstown steel works closed down last night at midnight and 80 men are thrown out of employment. The summer day is believed, will be only for a short time, is owing to the cold.

REED RENOMINATED.
Portland, Me., Aug. 6.—Speaker Thomas H. Reed was nominated by acclamation for the Republican convention of the first district today.

TREASURY STATEMENT.
Washington, Aug. 6.—The statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $24,857,941; gold reserve, $10,044,135.

THE GOLD DEMOCRATS.

Divided in Regard to a Third Ticket.

Indianapolis, Aug. 6.—The newspaper correspondents, notably from the East, continue almost all the arrivals today for the meeting tomorrow of the provisional national committee of the gold standard Democrats. Ex-Congressman Byrum is accompanied with mail and telegrams today, indicating a larger attendance tomorrow than he expected. The executive committee has accordingly declared the Saturday night meeting off. Mr. Birch promised to attend the national convention if one is called and then deliver an address.

M. L. Crawford, of Dallas, a delegate who arrived today, said that he was not in favor of an Independent Democratic ticket, although he supposed one would be named. If Democrats refrain from voting for Bryan, it will be because they are opposed to his election. The same motive, he said, should constrain them to vote for McKinley. If a gold standard Democratic candidate were nominated, Mr. Crawford thought it should be Gen. Bragg, of Wisconsin. J. P. Smith, of Fort Worth, who is also a delegate from Texas, is also among the arrivals. Delegate H. C. Shumpe, of Huntington, W. Va., and Randolph Stankor, of Wichita, Kan., arrived at noon. Both these gentlemen favor an independent ticket. Mr. Stankor said the ticket would have the effect of opposition to Bryan rather than being favorable to McKinley. Many Democrats would vote for gold standard Democrat who would support Bryan in the event of choice between McKinley and Bryan. Mr. Stankor favored as the independent candidate Congressman John K. Cowen of Maryland.

HOLDING THEIR WHEAT.
Nebraska Farmers Waiting For Better Prices.

Omaha, Aug. 6.—There is considerable grain moved out of Nebraska, but the outgoing quantities are not so great as to tax the equipment of any of the Nebraska roads. There is a steady movement of grain eastward, but there is no wild rush to ship the grain out of the state. The farmers have thirty days yet to dispose of their grain and they are great hurry about clearing out their crops. They are in the hope for a rise in the price, but it does not come along very soon, they will have to let their crops go for what they can get. Eastern security holders will not allow the farmers to hold back their grain this year, vainly waiting for better prices.

MAINE DEMOCRATS.
New Candidate For Governor is Nominated.

Waterville, Me., Aug. 6.—M. D. Frank, of Portland, was nominated for governor of Maine at the state Democratic convention this afternoon. When a resolution endorsing the Chicago candidates and platform was presented, William Henry Clifford, of Portland, objected in a sensational speech which was greeted with hisses. Clifford and thirty followers held the convention.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE.
Trading May Be Suspended For Thirty Days.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—It is reported on excellent authority that trading on the Chicago stock exchange will be suspended for thirty days after the exchange shall have opened. It is also probable that the date in future open days will be limited to a week or ten days. All this has been caused by the Moore Bros. scandal. No one knows, save the special committee appointed to arrange a settlement of the Diamond Match and New York Biscuit deals of the Moore Bros., when the stock exchange will resume active business. The room traders and many others have begun to make loud complaints against what they call the "arbitrary action" of the governing board in closing the exchange. They claim it is done to protect a favored firm and it does the majority of dealers great injustice. It is said the Moore Bros. and the special committee from the stock exchange will finish their labors before tomorrow noon and make a statement as to the financial standing of the firm.

THE TEXAS POPULISTS.
Amendments to the Platform Are Numerous.

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 6.—Upon resuming at 8:30 this morning a telegram to the Populist state convention was read from the Populists of Nebraska, sending greetings and stating that Schacke endorsed the action of the St. Louis convention. An amendment was presented providing that notes and securities not rendered for taxation should be void, the prime object being to shift the burden of taxation from the holders of vendible notes and relieve the landowners in the extent of their indebtedness on the same. An amendment demanding an appropriation for the improvement of Texas highways and waterways was adopted. An amendment limiting salaries of county officers to $2000 per annum was adopted by a large majority. An amendment providing that contractors shall work their men but eight hours per day was carried after much debate. Amendments are coming to the chair from all parts of the house, and it will take all day to complete the platform. Mr. Thomas, a negro delegate from New Orleans, sent an amendment to the platform demanding recognition of his race, and that they have a place in lawmaking and law-executing. He referred to the committee on resolutions without being read. The convention adjourned until 2 o'clock.

FIREBROS FOILED.
Berca, Ohio, Aug. 6.—An attempt was made last night by incendiaries to burn the house of Charles Moore, a non-union quarryman. The veranda was saturated with coal oil, but the incendiaries were frightened away before the match had been applied. There is no clue to their identity. Everything is quiet at the quarry today.

A MINNEAPOLIS CHARGE.
St. Paul, Aug. 6.—An attorney general asking that he begin proceedings to procure the indictment of our senators and representatives in congress and all the state officers for murder. The reason given is that they are all advocating the gold standard, and Mr. Ellington says that so many soldiers have been caused by business failures under the gold standard that the men who advocate its continuance are murderers just as much as the man who slays another, and should be punished as such.

DEED

R. P. Edson Claims to Be Innocent of Tampering With Ballots.

Campbell Did Vote For Cant on the Forty-Fifth Ballot.

Mr. Congdon Has Not Retracted Any Part of His Story.

The statement by Mr. Congdon that he saw R. P. Edson, out of the lobby at the judicial convention, destroy a ballot handed to him by J. B. Campbell, one of the delegates, and substitute another taken from his (Edson's) pocket, is positively denied by Mr. Edson, who is naturally much annoyed that he should be even suspected of being a party to such a fraud. Mr. Congdon did not see either ballot and consequently did not know whether either one was marked for Campbell or can he say whether the ballot put in the hat by Mr. Edson was not the latter's own vote which was entitled to cast as a delegate. What man who action of Mr. Edson appear suspicious was the substitution of both Campbell's and W. N. Edson's votes for Campbell's and W. J. Stevenson's. According to the statements of Mr. Edson, Campbell did vote for Cant without his own knowledge.

Mr. Campbell has made the following statement: "R. P. Edson was acting as one of the officers. Our names were being rapidly called by the secretary, as called the delegates were passing forward in rapid succession and depositing their ballots in a hat held by Mr. Edson. Previous to voting I handed Mr. Edson a ballot for his use and at his request, I did not hand my vote to him at all. I dropped it in the hat and sold. I understood that on that ballot we were to vote for Cant and I took a Hanks ballot and drew a line through Hanks' name and wrote Cant's name instead. When I time Hanks shook his head at me meaning not to vote for him, I never stated that I would vote for Cant, but on the contrary expected to vote for him on that ballot and on successive ballots until he should be nominated."

Mr. Hanks says that he stood immediately behind the hat and saw Mr. Campbell on the ballot and draw a line through his. The ballot was cast in the shape of W. J. Stevenson, who sat next to Mr. Campbell, also says that he distinctly saw Campbell scratch the name of Hanks and substitute the name of Cant for that of Hanks on his ballot and on successive ballots until he should be nominated.

On the other hand, Mr. Congdon did not make the statement attributed to him by the New Tribune this morning, and if any person has any doubt as to the accuracy of The Herald's account of Mr. Congdon's story he can verify it by a personal interview with that gentleman.

REV. HULL ARRAIGNED.
Held Without Bail For Poisoning His Wife.

St. Paul, Aug. 6.—In the police court this morning the case of Rev. J. J. Hull charged with poisoning his wife, was called, and the minister, evidently laboring under a keen sense of embarrassment, stepped out into the court room and took his position. Mr. Oppenheim, the assistant city attorney, made a formal motion that the case be postponed for a week, the defendant being meant to be held without bail.

Judge Twombly asked the prisoner if this would be satisfactory to him. Hull said it would. He further stated that he had as yet secured no attorney. The information judged against Hull on the preliminary hearing charges him with administering poison to his wife. This information was filed in order to prevent his release on habeas corpus proceedings. Another and more formal complaint will be given later on by the county attorney.

SQUIRES STILL TALKS.
His Argument in the Water Case Unended.

St. Paul, Aug. 6.—It begins to look as though the policy of the attorneys in the Duluth water case now before the attorney general is to dispose of the matter by taking it into eternity.

Mr. Squires continued his argument this morning, and occupied the entire forenoon, with no sign of its coming to a conclusion. After his will come Mr. Hanson, and then some of the other attorneys for the defense, and on the whole the attorney general and the case are in a fair way to be talked to death.

SIRENED.
Washington Star "Siren" said the statesman, turning and glancing at the interviewer, "I should not like to tell you whether I intend to bolt."

That was the question. I thought perhaps you might feel that you had not lost what was yours.

"However that may be, I shall not bolt. I shall stay inside the party, where I can make trouble."

EVERYTHING PREPARED.
New York Mercury "George" said by dying wife "I should not be happy if I thought of you and that you had not lost what was yours."

"Make your wife happy, Maria," said the weeping husband; "two are already on guard."

After dinner, says the Forum, as he went down the staircase he suddenly tripped and fell to the ground. He was not hurt, but he was very angry. He said to his secretary, "I am glad to hear you say so. I am glad to hear you say so. I am glad to hear you say so."

JEWELRY GLOVES.
The latest fad in the way of eccentric dress is the wearing of jewels upon various articles of clothing. This extravagance originated in Paris, where the jeweler is falling over each another in their attempts to find some new use to which to put gems, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

There is now on the market as a unique result of this attempt to find or devise something new, gloves in the back of which are set precious stones, diamonds, rubies, pearls and emeralds, and in fact, any gem whose natural color harmonizes or makes pleasing contrast to the color of the glove. Diamonds seem to be the favorite gems used for this purpose.

The jewels are set in the back of the glove, about the seam, and are held in place by means of a small screw. The jewels are set in the back of the glove, about the seam, and are held in place by means of a small screw.

The wearing of gems, according to jewelers, has never been so widespread and extensive as at the present time. One Jeweler yesterday, just as a city employe turned on a stream to flush the toilet, the volume of water drenched the fat man from his waist down, he exclaimed, "Well, that's a pretty trick, he exclaimed, as he looked at his saturated trousers. 'Why didn't you bolt?'"

"I beg your pardon, sir," said the man, "but I didn't think this thing would squirt so far and so high. I hope you won't report me."

"No," said the stout citizen, who seemed to be a good-natured sort of a man. "I won't report you, but I'll have to change my name until I get dry."

"Change your name," echoed the street sprinkler. "I don't understand you. Why will you have to change your name?"

"Well, it's just this way, my friend," responded the victim of the high-spirited plug. "My name is Wragge—Washington J. Wragge—generally known among my friends as Wash Wragge. From now until this water evaporates, I will be known as Wet Wragge. See?"

and the fat citizen walked off, leaving an aqueous trail behind him, and the city employe in some pretentious way to the real significance of the joke.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the most effective pill for overcoming such difficulties. S. F. Boyce.

STRONGER

Wheat Was Firmer and Steady Today at a Slight Advance.

The Exports of Wheat and Flour From Atlantic Ports Larger.

Shipments of Wheat From the Argentine Republic Were Smaller.

Wheat was stronger today and ruled quite steady throughout the session. The telegraph wires were down most of the day and there was little outside news to affect the local market. Exports were large, Argentine shipments were reported small, and there was cooler weather in the Northwest. These reports had a steady influence. September wheat opened higher at 56 1/2, declined but quickly recovered and sold up to 56 1/2. Towards noon it touched 56 1/2, which was the high point of the day. The close was strong and 1/2 higher at 56 1/2. December closed at a premium of 25 over September. The mills found 75,000 bush of cash stuff at 56 1/2, but under September. Annual Flower Show of the Associated Charities Next Week.

Will Be Given at Pantan & White's Thursday and Friday Evenings.

List of Premiums and Merchandise Prizes Which Are Offered.

The annual flower show of the Associated Charities will be given next Thursday and Friday evenings at Pantan & White's. The show is being assisted by John Richter, the florist in Pantan & White's. The object is to make a beautiful and profitable display, in comparison with which the former show, although a very creditable one, will fade into insignificance.

Chair, Miller is especially desirous that all persons sending flowers to the show will have their names attached and also indicate on the card whether they wish the flowers to be sold or whether they are willing to have them sold for the benefit of the Associated Charities.

The Duluth orchestra will give a concert on both evenings of the show. It is the aim of the Associated Charities to make the show as attractive and entertaining as possible, and the cash prizes will be made to make a very large crowd.

The admission to the show will be 10 cents and the proceeds will go to the Associated Charities.

The premium list is a very fine one and ought to offer inducements for a magnificent display. The premiums have been very liberal in contributing and the cash prizes will be substantial. The full premium list is as follows:

SILVER IN SUPERIOR.

Republicans Hold a Meeting and Organize.

The rally of the free silver Republicans which took place at the city hall, West Superior, last night, was attended by about 300 people and the remarks made during the course of the meeting were greeted with considerable applause. Judge Fred S. Parker was chosen chairman and John Thompson secretary. An able speech was delivered by F. H. Remington and he was loudly applauded. The following declaration of principles was adopted:

"We are Republicans. We are proud of our political lineage. We are steadfastly grounded in our Republican faith. Our victories have been won under the Republican banner, and we point to our record to prove our loyalty to all that is great and good in government. We believe in the Republican doctrine of Lincoln and Morton and Garfield and Blaine. We believe in the integrity and permanence of American institutions. We believe in the protection of American labor and in a just and fair compensation for American capital. We believe in their intelligence and patriotism. We believe in their knowledge of what is right and best. We believe in their honesty and in the justice of their cause. We do not believe that government of the people, for the people and by the people is a lie, or that Almighty God will allow it to perish from the earth.

"We believe that the vital issue confronting the people today is the question of finance. We recognize the advantages of international agreement regarding coinage laws. But we do not believe that the international agreement is a necessary corollary to American prosperity and American independence. We believe that the nation struck at silver by the act of 1873, was a blow struck directly at the prosperity and happiness of the people. We believe a restoration of silver to its ancient and constitutional position, independent of will in a large measure restore to the people that prosperity to which they have so long been a stranger.

"Therefore, we believe that these United States should immediately open our mints to the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver in the ratio of 16 to 1. We pledge ourselves to make this the one living issue of the present campaign. We pledge the cause of silver our hearty and undivided support.

William McManus made a red-hot speech denouncing the goldbugs. The mentioned Congressman Towne, of Duluth, and Samuel Crumpton, Third ward, and Mr. Towne's name was loudly cheered.

E. J. Casey also spoke, and then the permanent organization was effected. Judge Parker being chosen president; William McManus secretary. The following vice presidents were chosen: First ward, D. B. Cook; Second ward, Alderman Samuel Crumpton; Third ward, Christ Larson; Fourth ward, Gust Johnson; Fifth ward, O. H. Perry; Sixth ward, H. J. Campbell; Seventh ward, F. H. Remington; Eighth ward, C. M. Blakey; Ninth ward, D. H. Gordon; Tenth ward, Larry Brownman. The election of treasurer unanimously.

THROWN FROM A TRAIN.
Man Claims His Companion Was Practically Murdered.

A Poland, giving his name as William Andzrejczyk, reported to the police today that a man named Victor Rakowski had been thrown from a Northern Pacific freight train and killed at Pokegama station last night. Rakowski is directly due to the brutal carelessness of a brakeman on the train. Andzrejczyk says that he and Rakowski boarded the train at 9 o'clock last night at West Superior, en route from Milwaukee, their home, to Dakota.

He claims that the train neared the station named, one of the brakemen wanted them to pay something for the ride. They said they had nothing, and were ordered to get off. As Rakowski started to descend by the break beam from the gondola car, on which they were riding, the brakeman struck him on the face with his fist, knocking him off the car. The train was going at a high speed, and Rakowski struck the ground with terrific force. He lay with out stirring after his body stopped rolling. Andzrejczyk claims that the brakeman immediately signalled the engineer to go ahead faster, and told him that he had killed the man. The train stopped on the track, and the brakeman came out. When he alighted the brakeman tried to persuade him to go on to Dakota, but he refused. He was determined to see what had become of his friend. As he returned this morning on the passenger train, he recognized Rakowski's body, he says, lying beside the track.

"The Chinook" commences Monday night—Pavilion.

Heart Trouble Quickly Cured.
A Convincing Testimonial.

MISS ELLA KURTZ.
"For 19 years I suffered from heart trouble. During that time I was treated by five different physicians. All of them claimed that I could not be cured. I was greatly troubled with shortness of breath, palpitation and pain in the side. If I came excited, or exerted myself in the least, the pain in my side became very severe. At times it seemed as though needles were shooting through my side. Sometime in the month of November last, I commenced taking DR. MILES' HEART CURE and since then I have improved steadily. I can now sleep on my left side, something I had never been able to do before. I can walk without being fatigued, and am in much better health than ever before. I would recommend all sufferers from heart trouble to try Dr. Miles' invaluable remedy without delay."

ARRESTED IN MINNEAPOLIS.
Theodore Brown is Wanted in Duluth.

Theodore Brown, of this city, who is wanted by the police on two charges of procuring money under false pretences, was arrested in Minneapolis this morning. He will be brought here by Lieut. McLean, who left for Minneapolis this afternoon. Brown was at one time employed by Rubenack Bros., and later by Gooch & Crozier, proprietors of the Tacoma lodging house. It is claimed that on Aug. 3 Brown purchased some furniture from A. L. Fox & Co., of 212 West Michigan street, representing to them that he had secured control of the Tacoma and was refunding it. In payment he is said to have given a check on the Marine National bank for an amount $20 in excess of his bill, explaining that he wanted some money for other purchases, and was readily accommodated. On the same day he is also alleged to have procured the sum of $10 from Shapley & Bloom, of 102 West First street. Brown then fled himself away before the detection. The bank reported that Brown had no account there, and the matter was reported to the police on Wednesday.

Reddy is Desperate.

Several days ago a man named Reddy McGinnis and some companions went into Knox's lumber camp in Douglas county and held up the men in the camp. They did not secure much. The men went to Superior and swore out a warrant, charging McGinnis and the others with highway robbery. Two men supposed to be connected in the robbery were apprehended. A day or two ago four deputy sheriffs, Messrs. Wilcox, Coughlin, Stock and McGuire, went down to arrest McGinnis. Reddy was "hiding" for them, however, and when they were approaching his cabin, suddenly he popped up in front of them with a gun and ordered them away. They concluded they had better go. Another party of eight will be sent out to gather Reddy in.

CLOSING

Superior Elevators Are Shutting Down and Discharging Their Men.

The Globe Elevator Company Has Let Half Its Force Go.

Terminal Company Closes Today and Belt Line Next Week.

The result of the determination of the Superior board of trade to banish Minnesota inspectors from Superior elevators is already beginning to be made manifest. The Globe Elevator company has notified grain shippers that it wants no more grain shipped to its houses in West Superior, as preparations are being made to close them. About half the force has been discharged and the balance have been notified to look for other situations, as their services are likely to be dispensed with at any time. The Terminal elevators, the Carrell houses, will close today, keeping only a superintendent and two watchmen at the houses. They are there to keep the fire up for fire protection. The Superior Belt Line elevators, the Harrington system, will shut down next week.

There is a rumor that the Great Northern elevators will also shut down, for the reason that it will be more profitable to do this than to continue them in the face of this opposition. This is not confirmed, however.

All wheat remaining in store will be weighed out as fast as called for. Men can easily be procured to do this, even if the houses are closed down.

It has been rumored that the elevator companies will test the constitutionality of the law by not saying what they will do. It has been suggested that the companies may find a way to make the law inoperative by not saying what they will do.

The law provides that the operating elevators shall take out licenses as public warehouses. It may be that the fact that the elevators have grain stored there may bring them within the term "operating." In that case the Superior authorities may attempt to compel them to take out licenses, in which event the struggle would begin. This may or may not afford an excuse, but in any event it is hardly probable that the elevators intend to keep their houses closed for all time.

The committee having charge of the meeting are very busy and now have everything arranged for the accommodation of the crowd. BEING HARD FOUGHT.

Quo Warranto Proceedings Against the Water Company.

City Attorney Benham returned from St. Paul this morning. He will go back Monday to finish his argument before the attorney general in the quo warranto proceedings against the Duluth Gas and Light Water company. He opened Thursday at noon and expects to conclude by Monday night. The argument will be finished by Tuesday evening. The company has introduced considerable evidence and is making the argument for its almost strength to prevent the institution of proceedings in the supreme court. Mr. Benham says that the respondent has raised no points that the city has not been fully prepared to meet.

Will Employ Home Labor.

The board of public works has received from Frank Starano, of Jamestown, N. D., as to when the next contract will be let for work on the waterworks. Mr. Starano wants to ship in about 200 men about that time. He will not receive much information nor encouragement. President Davis said today that, if possible, matters will be so arranged that Duluth workingmen will receive the benefit of the work. It is let in large contracts, he said, it will be difficult to govern the selection of men. If the city is to work in small contracts the matter will be, to a great extent, susceptible of control by the board.

An Owner Found.

An owner has been found for the chenille curtains found in the possession of John Williams, who was arrested yesterday for carrying away a pair of trousers while he was negotiating for their disposal to a Michigan street second-hand dealer. They are the property of Mr. Nichols, night operator at Itasca for the Omaha hotel. He had sent them to Duluth to be cleaned and they were stolen at the Union depot. Williams, who also calls himself Tom Wook, is now serving a four-day sentence for vagrancy. A charge of petty larceny will be ready for him on his release.

Awarded Some Contracts.

Yesterday afternoon the board of education met at the Security bank and awarded contracts for school supplies and improvements. The Duluth Paper company was the low bidder for the supplies and secured the contract at $129.81. Nugent & Brown secured the printing. The Burgess Electric company was awarded a contract for an electric ventilating plant at the Onondaga school, and McMillan Co. was directed to paper the Stowe school at New Duluth at an estimated cost of $62.

Fashion in summer dress has reached the annual climax. The parade ground is now transferred to the various fashionable summer resorts, where diversity in pretty costumes is one of the leading charms of summer life. The modern up-to-date summer girl, with her long list of athletic and artistic accomplishments, is a pretty successful exponent of the varied phases of fashion, and whether she appears in evening dress, a baysale costume, or a bathing suit, she is the reigning attraction providing she has acquired the art of wearing her summer gown with an appropriate expression and cheery smiles, says the New York Sun.

The prettiest most poetic evening gown is made of tulle and crowned with success by her most radiant smiles. It is made with three skirts in three different colors, one each of pale green, mauve, and pink in the softest, most undecided shades, which make a charming effect. The sleeves of all the new evening dresses are either very short or just long enough to reach the elbow, and quite close to the arm, finished with a little rill. Other new evening gowns are made of lace trimmed with flounces. A very significant fashion, since it portends the trimming of all skirts and the downfall of the pretty plain ones so much in favor just at present.

SIMPLE STYLES.
Pretty evening dresses, too, are made of white silk muslin, in some simple style, with broad washes of ribbon for the finish. White glaze silk is also a very popular material, trimmed with sequined embroidery or lace. White moult velvet is another fashionable fabric for skirts, with cotton waist and sleeves. Matronly women wear soft brocades, made with a short train, but the skirt, which just clears the floor all around, is the proper length for young women. A black net evening gown, over white silk, and trimmed with white apique lace, is very striking, with the bodice well covered with the applique, a band of it around the waist and belted around the waist with pink ribbon. Diamond ornaments for the hair have taken the place of the aigrette so much worn during the winter, and if you cannot afford the real article the Parisian diamonds will answer the purpose with good effect.

One pretty evening dress is of china silk, starting from the deepest of palest tints of mauve, with a dainty lace design in white. The bodice is of white chiffon, draped over the bust, and with fine lace, which forms long scarf ends in front. Yellow roses trim the neck and sleeves. A model of evening bodice of chiffon shows a Figaro jacket of embroidered silk, with pointed capucins, and a pleated collar, and an embroidered belt. A Louis Seize gown of china silk for the matron has a black satin bodice and a full skirt of white chiffon draped around the shoulders. White chiffon frills finish the close satin sleeves.

STYLISH CAPES.
Among the stylish little capes for evening wear at summer hotels is one of white chiffon plaitings and a finish of white ostrich tips or rosettes of chiffon and bows of white satin ribbon around the neck. Some of the latest gowns made for afternoon and morning wear are those of plaid and black and white silk alpaca, trimmed lavishly with black velvet ribbon, which is one of the special features of dress decoration. It is used very effectively in various widths on evening as well as day gowns, and the old fashion of trimming skirts with three rows in graduated widths set on in vandyke points is revived again. Black velvet ribbon is conspicuous in millinery, too, and all the latest hats have a bow of this ribbon tied in with the flowers or feathers.

Matinee lace has come to the front again among the dress trimmings, and in the yellow tint mixed with white chiffon the effect is very pretty. Entire waists, with basques, are made of this lace, and white muslin gowns are trimmed with Matinee motifs set on insertion around the skirt and dotting the waist and sleeves.

All sorts and kinds of embroideries are seen on the fashionable summer gowns, the latest of which is a mixture of colored straw and applique lace, and also flower designs done in cream white baby ribbon all over the little baysale jackets.

RIBBON EVERYWHERE.
Ribbon of every imaginable description is a distinctive feature of dress trimming this season, and there is no end to the pretty effects brought out on the summer girl's simple gowns, with double-faced satin, flowered taffeta, and striped ribbons. Eger batiste ribbons striped with pink, blue, and yellow satin make very effective trimmings, and narrow satin and taffeta is used in plaited frills around the bottoms of dresses. Frilled basques are made of two rows of ribbon plaiting, and there are no end of uses for a quilling of inch-wide satin ribbon. One pretty waist of cream-colored net has a basque and wide collar edged around with a plaiting of inch-wide white satin ribbon. Odd waists may be counted by the dozen in the average woman's summer outfit, and they are made of every grade of material from gingham to broadcloth silk, but the latest advices from Paris are decidedly against the waist which is distinctly in contrast to the skirt. To be absolutely correct style it must bear some little relationship to the rest of the gown. For example, a black or white chiffon bodice is the proper thing with a black and white striped skirt, and if a white chiffon bodice is worn with a black skirt it should have a wide corset belt, just to establish a connecting link between the black skirt and the white waist.

STRIKING CONTRASTS.
One new gown of black and white silk

has a waist and sleeves of the stripes, a wide belt of black satin embroidered with black sequins and pointed epaulets of the stripes lined with white. The skirt is turned back on each corner over the light-fitting sleeves, while a vest of black chiffon gives a touch of color to the gray canvas gowns are made with a bodice of white, tucked crosswise, and finished at the neck and belt with yellow satin ribbon. Another pretty idea for a blue gray canvas gown, lined with pink and blue silk, is a vest and collar of blue and white glaze silk, flowered with pink roses, and a wide belt and revers of black satin edged around with grass lawn culture.

Gray crepe de chine gowns are trimmed with three tiny frills of Valenciennes lace around the skirt. And this sort of trimming appears again on a black crepe de chine dress, with a draped bodice and a fichu-like collar of cream-colored net, edged with lawn embroidery or with Valenciennes lace. A pretty afternoon gown is of shot tulle and green silk, made very simple but quite elegant with a fichu of cream lace trimmed with frills of lace over pinked frills of the silk. Another gown of china silk, flowered all over with roses and leaves, has a full bodice with a Swiss belt of white satin embroidered with various colored imitation jewels. The collar is also of satin, embroidered and edged with accordion-plaited frills of silk.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL.

A rather unusual model for a white alpaca dress shows a Spanish jacket and Turtin collar of heliotrope satin trimmed with grass lawn motifs and a grass lawn frill. Insertions of lawn trim the skirt, and a shirred belt of heliotrope satin completes the waist. The very latest idea in boating dresses is the white canvas gown trimmed with two twists of scarlet satin. The bodice is made of alternate squares of red and white muslin outlined with narrow embroidered inserting, a new and very effective material. The collar and sleeves of canvas are trimmed with the twists of red satin made to look like tiny ropes.

A new and stylish navy blue serge gown has a cape zouave jacket trimmed with gold and white braid, and a blouse of china blue and white silk. The skirt is shirred around the hips and made quite separate from the silk lining, except at the waist.

The midsummer bicycle suit worn by the fashionable girl is a skirt of gray covert cloth, well fitted, and not more than two and a half yards wide, with a cotton or white china silk shirt waist, and if she is in sympathy with the French idea of bathing suits, she has zouave trousers and waist of untrimmed black and red serge, with a broad belt of white serge fastened with silver buckles. She also has a graceful wrap of bath toweling to throw over her when she walks down the street, and pretty little canvas shoes, laced across the instep with braid, and a bright-colored silk handkerchief around her head.

SUMMER MOURNING.
Few Changes But They Are Important.

Mourning etiquette changes little from season to season, but though few, they are all important to those who wear the apparel of grief. The last year marks one important reform in the old abuses of black wearing, which, however, is much less common now than even five years ago, says Nina Fitch in the St. Louis Star. It is still a fashionable and eminently decent custom to put on black for the dead and it is one that will doubtless continue for many years to come. But the amenities of life no longer exact it, and there are those who consider the custom paganish, as well as unhealthy. They claim, indeed, that in time it will be done away with entirely.

Meanwhile such reforms as can be forced on the grief-stricken are going on. Fashion and good sense are doing all they can toward making the pining of woe agreeable to the eye and not too burdensome to the flesh.

THE MOURNING VEIL.
The chief change mentioned has been a shortening of the deep veils worn in the first stages of mourning.

These now reach no lower than the waist line, and very often but little below the shoulders.

Widows' bonnet draperies may be a little deeper than waist length, and even come to the knees, and below, if liked.

The short veil, however, is the one most approved, and instead of the old, heavy crepe and nurse veils, the lightest possible materials are used.

A thickish quality of black silk muslin, with a dull finish, is one texture used by widows.

Other veils are of a soft silk canvas, of uncommon fineness and delicacy, and very little heavier in weight than the mousseline.

Both sorts will be finished around in the same way, with a hemstitched border an inch and a half deep, or else with a hem the same depth of English crepe. Veils of nun's veiling, though not so fashionable as those of the other materials, are less expensive and may still be had.

TINY BONNETS.
All bonnets which accompany long veils are small and snugly fitting. Except a facing of crepe or the veil material about the brim, no trimming is used, the veil covering the rest of the bonnet completely.

For elderly widows the adjustment of the veil is very simple and plain. One square end is taken, divided equally in the middle and drawn over the bonnet crown in close, flat plaits; these then are pinned at the sides with stick pins or plain side brooches of dull jet.

Younger women may have the veil draped with a more artistic effect on a trimmed bonnet, but it is only in the first weeks of grief that it is now ever allowed to follow the fashion.

WIDOWS' CAPS.
After a year the long veils may be discarded and a short faced one of crepe, net, edged with a fold of crepe, worn instead.

As to the widow's cap itself, that narrow edge of white in the front of the bonnet, it is still not considered the best thought for young women. It is bought in their case to invite more attention than is consistent with the ethics of inapprehensiveness, so they are no longer worn by the smartest women. In elderly bonnets, however, the cap of widowhood is still seen, and deep turnover cuffs and bands of thin white lawn with a hem stitched edge are a frequent accompaniment.

In Paris these neat accessories are not worn by widows alone, but are the privilege of young and old alike. And with the inconsistency of fashion, they do exactly what the cap has been abandoned for—tell all the world that the changing and pretty widow are broken and that she is (presumably) once more in the market.

SUITABLE MATERIALS.
For first mourning Henrietta cloth, cashmere, nun's veiling and dull silk are the textures always advised and long used for gowns. Foulard silks and lusterless serges follow in the next stage, and of these moments among the new materials there are dull silk grenadines, clammies and canvases that may be worn even for the heaviest mourning. These are appropriately trimmed with folds of the same, or else others of English crepe, and are very handsome over silk linings.

CORRECT TRIMMINGS.
No luxurious ornament or jet hat ornament is considered good taste for the first stuffs; that ribbons and jet ornaments must have a dull finish.

Extreme plainness is thought the best form. For light mourning black quills, wings and simple silk flowers may be used, and for the "polite of second" black a combination of black and white for both gown and hat is allowed. Lavender and blue are all the attendant shades of violet, however, are no longer mourning tints. Purple in all its tones has become a fashionable color, and so has lost the sad significance it once had.

DESIGNS FOR GOWNS.
A few handsome models which are here described will give further ideas as to modish mourning wear.

All the colors for first black are trimmed with English crepe which handsome and melancholy material is high favored and much worn. A gown of this color may even form half of the costume. Another first of the crepe. This is also lavishly mourning color, and is of Henrietta cloth with the skirt heavily trimmed from waist to hem with gorge-shaped bands of the crepe. This is also lavishly displayed on the bodice, the chief feature of which is a stylish cape effect at the top of the snug sleeves.

A charming second black dress is realized in silk canvas and black and white striped taffeta. This forms the sleeves and bodice proper over which is hung a low-necked sleeveless blouse of the canvas. The skirt, plain and made loose from the foundation, is slashed at the hips to show the striped silk lining.

So combined these materials are especially handsome, but others could be used with equally good effect. For example, a bodice of shot or checked silk could have the rest of the gown of "ramie grenadine, or plain black silk. Again, the gown could be of the figured, shot or striped muslin, and the under bodice of plain black or white. The simplicity of the model recommends it to both fat and lean.

AN ALL-BLACK COSTUME.
In a costume with a tucked skirt, and balloon sleeves may be recognized something very dressy indeed, but quite suitable for a young lady in the middle stages of black. This is of plain Indian foulard, with the bodice arranged with a jacket effect in white embroidered batiste over a crisp lining. Inside the jacket is a vest of the plain batiste, with quilting of the black foulard, which in crimped frills also finishes the wrist of the sleeves.

The chapeau for this pretty and elegant costume seems, on the other hand, very simple.

It is of dull rough chip with a very low round crown. Over this the trimming, a single high bow of taffeta ribbon, edged with a narrow ruffling of black silk muslin, is put on to create an even flatter effect.

IN BLACK AND WHITE.
For the very hot weather gowns pure white with black trimmings are admissible for even the darkest mourning.

Charming gowns for home and hotel are made of mull and plain white batiste, with the skirts only deeply hemmed or trimmed at most with three tucks. Not under any circumstances are frills of any sort on these gowns considered consistent with mourning. This plainness and a black ribbon stock and belt are all that divide the white frock of grief from the white one of joy.

ELEGANT ATTIRE.
And Not Necessarily of Very Great Cost.

The fashion of dress has improved decidedly since last summer, and in most directions there is less exaggeration and consequently more actual grace and elegance.

Sleeves are undoubtedly smaller, and even the larger ones show a considerable length of tightly fitting arm. The very thin textures made over a color have the thin material ruffled, puffed or pleated over the closely fitting silk lining nearly to the shoulder, with a round, very full puff just at the top. These sleeves are altogether prettier than the large, loose, drooping sleeves or the huge skirt outstanding ones, says the New York Sun. Then the trimming that is being placed on the bottom of the skirts would indicate that skirts soon will be less full, as it would be impossible to place frills and puffs around a very full, gored skirt. Some of the French gowns are trimmed half way up the skirts.

The pretty girlish aashes are again in full favor with all bodices that terminate at the waist. One pretty way of shewing them is to have two short loops standing straight up the back and three or four longer ones lying down on the skirt, these held in place by the long wash ribbon that passes around the waist and ties in a loose knot between the loops, the ends falling to the bottom of the gown. Black and white is more of a favorite combination this season than ever; it is becoming and pretty. Shepherd plaid is very much in vogue, and with it comes the quaint old-fashioned trimming of the skirts, with rows and rows of the pencil velvet. Some of the latest skirts are trimmed in vandykes of three different widths.

HARMONY SOUGHT.
This season it seems the thing to have the skirts and blouses harmonize more, and the one serviceable black silk muslin can be used to edge them instead of passementerie.

The possibilities of grass linen, either in plain or embroidered varieties, are inexhaustible, for it is one of those valuable materials that you can make either into plain, simple morning frocks or blouses or into dainty gowns worthy of the most dressy occasion.

A striking dash of color is very striking, the high collar making it very striking.

SHIRT WAISTS.
How pretty as well as indispensable the shirt waists are. Some of the stylish ones are made of brown Holland, lined with black, white or a color, the detachable collar and cuffs being made of piping material. One of the latest novelties is made of a coarse unbleached canvas. This is embroidered by hand in bold and artistic designs, generally of effective, and are particularly suited to boating and tennis.

A long dan cloth driving coat is a necessary garment for women who have taken to wheeling, as well as for those that drive. A leading one is of light gray nobby hair, with strapped seams, and is lined with silk of the same shade to insure its slipping on and easily. It is buttoned up with large horn buttons.

Here is one which is belted in. It is of a light dan cloth, and is most useful on a long sea voyage, as well as for carriage wear. It is lined throughout with bright brown silk, and is buttoned down the side with horn buttons and belted with a brown leather belt.

A judicious mixture of cane and ficus makes a very useful midsummer wrap. Make it of silk, with trimmings of pleated frills of black silk muslin, the frills ending crossing high on the bust and the long round ends fastened at the back of the waist. To the ficus attach a short cape, and a thick ruche of black muslin encircles the neck.

The image shows a blank ledger page. At the top, there is a header section with a light gray background. Below the header is a table with three columns and one row. The table is defined by black lines. The first column is the widest, followed by the second, and then the third. There is a small, faint mark in the first column of the table.

A vertical strip of a grid pattern, likely a page from a ledger or notebook. The grid consists of multiple columns and rows of empty rectangular cells. The strip is oriented vertically, showing a portion of the page's structure.

GOSSIP OF THE STAGE.

This pleasing story has been revived for the midsummer season by the New York Evening Sun. One of the most trying of the ordeals which actors are often called upon to face is what is technically known as a "delayed entrance." By this is meant the failure of an actor to come upon the stage when his cue is given. When this happens it devolves upon those who are already upon the stage to "hold the scene." In order to do this it is necessary to improvise some sort of dialogue or monologue for the purpose of diverting the audience until the tardy one puts in an appearance. A failure to achieve this end frequently results in a period of embarrassment which, though brief, will leave an unpleasant impression on the minds of the audience throughout the entire performance.

A good story is told of an old-time actor who once experienced "the trouble." He was in the character of a physician, and immediately upon the departure of the actor he was to appear, he exclaimed: "Well, well, well! How slow he is walking!" He then turned to one of the other actors and exclaimed:

"Ah! Here comes the doctor now. How fortunate!"

He waited a few moments, but the doctor failed to appear. "The trouble," thereupon prepared to "hold the scene," "Well, well, well! How slow he is walking!" He then turned to one of the other actors and exclaimed:

"Did you ever see such a man? There he goes to put a little girl on the head. How kind-hearted he is, to be sure. Ha, ha! Here he comes at last! No, no, he seems to look like a fellow of a dog-fancier's shop. I wonder—"

But he got no further, for at that moment, while he was saying "the trouble," the actor who was to appear rushed in from the left entrance and slapped him on the back.

A rueful expression crept over the actor's features, and he cautiously extended "the glad hand" to the other actor, who said to him, "Well, doctor, you got around that corner mighty spry."

When "In Mizouzi" is sent out next season A. S. Phipps will play the sheriff, Jim Radburn, Nat Goodwin's old part.

The wife of "Billy" Barry, the Irish comedian, died last week. In bygone years, as Phipps Fordham, he was a famous dancer, but who left the stage long ago. She was the mother of his children, all of whom survive her.

Chimble Fadden's famous phrase has gotten into song. In the travesty, "In Gay New York," Henry Norman, with a gang of cheerful murderers, sing a merry ballad of which this is one stanza:

We'll play you poker for a dollar or your life.
We'll shake you dice for a tootiepop or your wife.
We're copper lined and our throats are made of brass.
And when we drink, why, we always eat the glass.
We're an airy, fairy, cheery lot of murderers.
And a nickel is our value of a life.
Any sanguinary job should be referred to us.
We can juggle a revolver or a knife.
We've venomed in every kind of criminality.
And we've got a lot of golden bullets to sell.
And can shoot or stab a man without formality.
And the motto that we use is, What's left?

Charles Frohman has the American rights for "Rosemary," the play that has been the "hit" of the London season. Every seat was sold for every one of the first fifty performances in London, which is said to be an unequalled record.

Bret Hart's new play, which is to be originally presented in Philadelphia next month, with Annie Russell and Joseph Haworth in the leading roles is called "Sue."

Alan Dals writes from London: Ada Rehan, who was in splendid form, working with a deftness and grace that she doesn't always vouchsafe—is certainly more popular in London than she is in New York. I had read plenty of cable stories of the red-hot reception accorded to her by the Londoners. In this particular case I can now chronicle my mistake with a glad sincerity. Ada Rehan was applauded, when she first appeared, as Sarah Bernhardt might wish to be applauded. The progress of "The Countess Guicci" was interrupted for a full minute by the loud and vigorous demonstrations that were made when she first walked toward the footlights. Miss Rehan is positively and undoubtedly a London pet. They are as fond of her in the English metropolis as they are of Ellen Terry, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and one or two others.

Every attendance she made "sold." The eyes of the audience were perpetually riveted on Miss Rehan, and only once was there a reaction. It came in the third act, when Miss Rehan appeared in a costume so superlatively ugly and so supremely unbecoming that a little arose spontaneously. Ada Rehan, however, can do what she likes in London. She establishes here for every length of time that she may elect. When London loves, London loves. New York is fickle and forgetful. New York adores an actress until somebody younger and prettier and more appropriate steps in to improve upon her. When London loves, New York throws her off like a discarded glove, and all the king's horses and all the king's men could not re-establish her. Miss Rehan undoubtedly knows this. The allegiance of New York has swerved. It has rushed into other channels. In London Miss Rehan will be popular as long as she can act. London will be here as long as she wants it.

Marie Tempest will not return to America with "The Gaiety" as it was hoped. Geraldine Usher and beautiful Marie Studholme will be the only imported members of the American company.

Hagard's novel, "King Solomon's Mines," is being dramatized for Robert Mantell.

"As You Like It" is to have this notable open-air cast at Ashbury Park, N. Y., Aug. 31:

Oliver Nathaniel Hartwig
Adrian Vernon Chase
Charles the Wrestler William Muldoon
The Banished Duke Thomas Coleman
Lamont Camille D'Arville

Thomas Coleman, who is to play the Banished Duke, was a member of the Audubon Summer Stock company a few weeks ago, in an open-air "As You Like It" at Glen Cove, N. Y. Last week, he played Orlando, Albert Gallatin, once a member of the Kemper Stock company, was the Rosalind, and Charles Charters of the same company was the Silvius.

Bessie Tyree has secured a London engagement, and so will not originate the title part in "A Lady of Quality."

It is supposed that the company which A. M. Palmer is organizing for the opening of the new Great Northern theater in Chicago is intended to take the place of the Palmer Stock company, which was organized in Washington, D. C., two years ago. Henry Miller has been engaged as leading man of the new company, and Blanche Walsh, who is now in Australia, with Nat Goodwin, is to join. The first play at the Northern theater will be a new one by Paul Potter, author of the dramatic version of "Tilly." Oct. 5 is the date of the opening.

Robert T. Haines will play the hero, Alex Nazimoff, in "In Darkest Russia," next season. Schma Henry will resume her old character, Ida Barsky.

Lewis Morrison will have one of the biggest attractions of the coming season. He will carry special scenery for all the plays in his repertoire, and will include his new drama, "The Indian," "Faust," "Yorkie's Love," and "Rebecca." The drama of the season will be particularly elaborate. The play is in four acts, each one having a separate right entrance, the belated physician rushed in from the left entrance and slapped him on the back.

After a successful career of ten years in the classic drama, Robert Downing has decided to put aside the toga next year and appear in a strong character role. His season begins in Buffalo on Sept. 2, when he will present an entirely new historical drama entitled "Putnam, a Son of the Revolution," in which he will play the part of the farmer-warrior. His handsome and talented wife, Kate Blair, will play a part especially written for her. Mr. Downing is at present enjoying his leisure months and also his horticulture on his farm at Farmington, near Washington, D. C.

The production of W. A. Brady's new romantic spectacle, "Under the Polar Star," at the Grand Opera, N. Y., next month will be one of the biggest ventures of the season. No exception is made of the fact that the display will be one of the most elaborate ever seen on the American stage. The success of the production is being eagerly awaited by the public. The production is being eagerly awaited by the public. The production is being eagerly awaited by the public.

Chimble Fadden's famous phrase has gotten into song. In the travesty, "In Gay New York," Henry Norman, with a gang of cheerful murderers, sing a merry ballad of which this is one stanza:

We'll play you poker for a dollar or your life.
We'll shake you dice for a tootiepop or your wife.
We're copper lined and our throats are made of brass.
And when we drink, why, we always eat the glass.
We're an airy, fairy, cheery lot of murderers.
And a nickel is our value of a life.
Any sanguinary job should be referred to us.
We can juggle a revolver or a knife.
We've venomed in every kind of criminality.
And we've got a lot of golden bullets to sell.
And can shoot or stab a man without formality.
And the motto that we use is, What's left?

Charles Frohman has the American rights for "Rosemary," the play that has been the "hit" of the London season. Every seat was sold for every one of the first fifty performances in London, which is said to be an unequalled record.

Bret Hart's new play, which is to be originally presented in Philadelphia next month, with Annie Russell and Joseph Haworth in the leading roles is called "Sue."

Alan Dals writes from London: Ada Rehan, who was in splendid form, working with a deftness and grace that she doesn't always vouchsafe—is certainly more popular in London than she is in New York. I had read plenty of cable stories of the red-hot reception accorded to her by the Londoners. In this particular case I can now chronicle my mistake with a glad sincerity. Ada Rehan was applauded, when she first appeared, as Sarah Bernhardt might wish to be applauded. The progress of "The Countess Guicci" was interrupted for a full minute by the loud and vigorous demonstrations that were made when she first walked toward the footlights. Miss Rehan is positively and undoubtedly a London pet. They are as fond of her in the English metropolis as they are of Ellen Terry, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and one or two others.

Every attendance she made "sold." The eyes of the audience were perpetually riveted on Miss Rehan, and only once was there a reaction. It came in the third act, when Miss Rehan appeared in a costume so superlatively ugly and so supremely unbecoming that a little arose spontaneously. Ada Rehan, however, can do what she likes in London. She establishes here for every length of time that she may elect. When London loves, London loves. New York is fickle and forgetful. New York adores an actress until somebody younger and prettier and more appropriate steps in to improve upon her. When London loves, New York throws her off like a discarded glove, and all the king's horses and all the king's men could not re-establish her. Miss Rehan undoubtedly knows this. The allegiance of New York has swerved. It has rushed into other channels. In London Miss Rehan will be popular as long as she can act. London will be here as long as she wants it.

Marie Tempest will not return to America with "The Gaiety" as it was hoped. Geraldine Usher and beautiful Marie Studholme will be the only imported members of the American company.

After a successful career of ten years in the classic drama, Robert Downing has decided to put aside the toga next year and appear in a strong character role. His season begins in Buffalo on Sept. 2, when he will present an entirely new historical drama entitled "Putnam, a Son of the Revolution," in which he will play the part of the farmer-warrior. His handsome and talented wife, Kate Blair, will play a part especially written for her. Mr. Downing is at present enjoying his leisure months and also his horticulture on his farm at Farmington, near Washington, D. C.

The production of W. A. Brady's new romantic spectacle, "Under the Polar Star," at the Grand Opera, N. Y., next month will be one of the biggest ventures of the season. No exception is made of the fact that the display will be one of the most elaborate ever seen on the American stage. The success of the production is being eagerly awaited by the public. Bessie Tyree has secured a London engagement, and so will not originate the title part in "A Lady of Quality."

It is supposed that the company which A. M. Palmer is organizing for the opening of the new Great Northern theater in Chicago is intended to take the place of the Palmer Stock company, which was organized in Washington, D. C., two years ago. Henry Miller has been engaged as leading man of the new company, and Blanche Walsh, who is now in Australia, with Nat Goodwin, is to join. The first play at the Northern theater will be a new one by Paul Potter, author of the dramatic version of "Tilly." Oct. 5 is the date of the opening.

Robert T. Haines will play the hero, Alex Nazimoff, in "In Darkest Russia," next season. Schma Henry will resume her old character, Ida Barsky.

Lewis Morrison will have one of the biggest attractions of the coming season. He will carry special scenery for all the plays in his repertoire, and will include his new drama, "The Indian," "Faust," "Yorkie's Love," and "Rebecca." The drama of the season will be particularly elaborate. The play is in four acts, each one having a separate right entrance, the belated physician rushed in from the left entrance and slapped him on the back.

A rueful expression crept over the actor's features, and he cautiously extended "the glad hand" to the other actor, who said to him, "Well, doctor, you got around that corner mighty spry."

When "In Mizouzi" is sent out next season A. S. Phipps will play the sheriff, Jim Radburn, Nat Goodwin's old part.

The wife of "Billy" Barry, the Irish comedian, died last week. In bygone years, as Phipps Fordham, he was a famous dancer, but who left the stage long ago. She was the mother of his children, all of whom survive her.

CROWDS

Gather to Greet Candidate Bryan at Every Town and Village.

Outbursts of Political Enthusiasm Are Spontaneous and Universal.

His Progress to New York Is One Continuous Popular Ovation.

Monroeville, Ind., Aug. 10.—Hon. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, today made a grand stride out of the West, when he sprang toward the heart of the enemy's country, as he has seen fit to dominate New York, as the train on the Pennsylvania Central upon which he traveled pulled out of Chicago at a little before midnight. Demonstrations were made about Chicago and the other suburban stations, large crowds surrounding the train at the stations and uttering their presence by the use of fireworks and brass bands. The train had barely passed the city limits, however, before Mr. and Mrs. Bryan retired to their room in the handsome compartment car.

Again did the Bryan party fail to catch up with Hon. and Mrs. R. P. Blount, who left Chicago on an earlier train intending to join the Bryan party at Alliance, Ohio. J. E. Malone, Democratic national committeeman for Kansas and likely to be a member of the executive committee; J. E. Malone, of Juncos, Wis., committeeman from that state; and George J. Peck, of Omaha, an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, and whose child was by resolution of the Nebraska legislature some four years ago named after the rising young congressman from Nebraska, are traveling with the Bryan party. Hon. John A. Creighton, of Omaha, a member of the notification committee, is also with it.

Mr. Bryan was feeling unusually good over a meeting at Chicago with Hon. A. J. Warner, of the bimetallic league, and with Hon. George J. Peck, of Wisconsin. Mr. Peck was until recently against him, but he has become an ardent Bryan supporter and has assured Mr. Bryan that he will carry Wisconsin. Governor Peck says confidently in 1896, when he was elected governor.

At Valparaiso, at 1:40 a. m., a crowd aggregating 1000 was in waiting and about 100 of them carried torches. There was music and numerous banners. Mr. Bryan was greeted with a semicircle of waiffulness in the Bryan station and the faithful party of 1000 waited for him. Early dawn found the train at Columbia City, Ind., 120 miles out from Chicago, and the Bryan party started and shook hands all around. At 5:20 a. m., there were probably 2000 people on the platform, and when Mr. Bryan came out he was greeted daily. To a request that he speak, he replied somewhat hesitantly that they must not expect a speech and that he had no time to spare. He was then introduced to the crowd by the speaker, and he said he had promised them that he would not speak in their absence, and he expected to have a large audience to talk to in New York and wanted the crowd passed him in usual good order and all secured a grasp of his hand. "I want to shake," said one man in a loud voice, "I don't know much, but I'll shake; but they say the best on 'em has got the umble toes."

At Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 10.—The temperature here at 10:30 was 94 in the shade. Several cases of sunstroke are reported for yesterday, but no fatalities.

DISCOVERED AT LAST.
New York Mail and Express: Uncle Hiram—No wonder them bicycle fellows is all ben over like monkeys. Aunt Hulda—I'd like to know what you know 'bout it, Hiram.

Uncle Hiram—I don't know much, I'll allow; but they say the best on 'em has got the umble toes.

CHINESE POINT OF VIEW.
New York Mail and Express: Miss Chicago.—The juries say that Mr. Chang expresses more curiosity to see Chicago than any other American city. On account of our immense buildings, I suppose.

Miss S. Louis—Not on account of your immense feet.

INVENTORS SHOULD'NT MARRY.
Nicola Tesla is a bright young man and a noted inventor, but he is in a fair way to get himself desiccated by the gentle sex, says the New York World. During a recent interview he was asked if he believed in marriage for persons of artistic temperament. In reply he said that for an artist, musician or writer, yes; but for an inventor, no. The first three, he said, may gain inspiration from a woman's influence and be led by their love to finer achievement, but an inventor, he believes, has so intense a nature, "with so much in it of the masculine quality," that in giving himself to a woman he might lose the would give everything and so take everything from his chosen field. He doesn't think that many great inventions can be made that have been made by married men.

CRASH

Frightful Trolley Car Accident Which Kills Seven Persons Instantly.

Ninety Men, Women and Children Face to Face With Death.

Brake Rigging Broke Upon a Steep Grade and Sharp Curve.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 10.—A runaway trolley car on the Columbia and Donegal railroad last night, killed seven persons and injured fifty more. The car was returning from Columbia from Chick-leon park, when the brake rigging broke on a steep grade. There were about ninety passengers on board, and they became panic-stricken when they saw the car was beyond control. The bill was a long one for the moment, the runaway gathered additional speed, until it is estimated by those on board that it was running fully a mile a minute when it struck a sharp curve, and let down the track. It ran across the bridge running parallel with the trolley road struck against a tree and tumbled over into a deep ditch.

The first body taken out of the wreck was that of Henry Smith, an iron worker of Columbia, who had been instantly killed by a piece of wood which pierced his head. Alex. Foehlinger, the motor-man, was crushed to death and near him was W. A. Pinkerton, a Columbia boy, who had met a similar fate. Chief Burgess, H. H. Heles, of Columbia, who had been riding on the rear platform, jumped a few moments before the car left the track and his lifeless body was found so high that he was not recognized. He died a few hours later. Mr. J. J. Ludlow, of Sea Girt, N. J., was so badly injured that he died shortly after being removed to the hospital. Miss Ella N. Fitzgerald, of Lancaster, had been riding on the rear platform, and died at 6 o'clock this morning. Those injured are: Mary Bradley, Philadelphia, cut and bruised about the body; John Carlson, Columbia, leg broken; Samuel Wyke, Columbia, ribs broken and badly cut; George J. Peck, Lancaster, shoulder crushed and cut about body; William Stauffer, Lancaster, cut on head; Matt Kosley, Columbia, shoulder dislocated, cut on head and arm broken; Mrs. Mary Stauffer, Lancaster, head and back injured; James W. H. Heles, Columbia, leg, wrist and ribs broken; Charles Rhinehart, Columbia, neck injured; Mrs. George Rhinehart, Columbia, shoulder and back injured; James Shill, Baltimore, head and face cut and body bruised; Tillie McKonzie, Lancaster, arm broken; Reese Frank, Columbia, four ribs broken.

CALLED ON M'KINLEY.

Some of the Bryan Notification Committee Have a Sideshow.

Canon, Aug. 10.—The Bryan notification committee from Putnam, Nebraska, composed of about sixty prominent Democrats of that city, and headed by County Chairman Howie and Morris Foster, arrived in Canon shortly before noon today, and finding that they had nearly two hours to spare, they decided to call upon Mr. McKinley. Mr. Foster acted as spokesman for the party on arriving at the governor's residence. He said he believed any candidate for the presidency was worthy of the respect of the people of Nebraska. The members of the delegation had, therefore, called to pay their respects and to make a friendly call as American citizens.

In response, Governor McKinley said: "I am deeply gratified to receive this friendly visit from the Bryan notification committee, although we are of different political belief. We are, as American citizens, proud of our country, and believe in common that we have now and will continue to have in the future the best government in the world. I sincerely thank you, gentlemen, for this visit, and assure you that it gives me much pleasure." At the close of the visit, Mr. McKinley greeted each member of the delegation in person.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks Strong and Higher at Opening.

New York, Aug. 10.—The stock market opened strong and higher, partly in response to improved foreign quotations and chiefly on covering for export account. Rock Island gained 1/2; Southern preferred, Manhattan and Chicago Gas 1/2 cents. The other improvements were fractional aside from sugar, which was buoyant, advancing 3/4 to 9/8, with subsequent recession to 9/16 on the announcement of a break of 20 points in German granulated sugar. On the other hand, Northwest displayed marked heaviness, yielding 1/2 to 3/4.

The bear faction made a determined drive against the Sugar and Manhattan and under a flood of sales the former broke to 9/8 and the latter 2/4. The democratization in these stocks precipitated vigorous selling of other properties in which several new low records were established. Brooklyn Union Gas reacted 3/4 per cent. to 7/8 and Cotton Oil, preferred, 3/4 per cent. The consolidating in the heavy list have averaged 1/2 per cent., except for Northwest, which touched 3/4. The market at 11 o'clock was played little resistance to bear pressure, and although prices were substantially above the low train, considerable favoritism was visible on diminishing trading. There were no new developments affecting the general financial situation and market values were entirely sensitive to professional operations.

The Treasury Officials Were Obligated to Call Back a Circular.

Grave Inaccuracies in Regard to the Silver Question Filled It.

Found It Was Making Silver Voters Rather Than Gold Converts.

Washington, Aug. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two weeks ago the treasury department issued a circular entitled "Information Respecting United States Bonds, Paper Currency, Coin, Production of the Precious Metals, etc." issued by the United States Treasury Department; Circular 123. The grave inaccuracies and willful misrepresentations regarding the silver question made in this pamphlet were pointed out at once by every man familiar with the subject. The press immediately pointed out these discrepancies, and called attention to the evident desire and intention to mislead the public mind by an official document of the United States.

The treasury officials very soon discovered that they had not only made a serious mistake, but that the effect of the pamphlet was exactly opposite to that intended. It would make silver voters rather than gold converts. Therefore the pamphlet was withdrawn by the department, and the existing copies destroyed. Only those few now in the hands of the newspaper men are to be found.

In explanation of this the treasury officials say: "The silver daisy with its golden heart is a beautiful emblem of the silver sentiment, it will perhaps be remembered, was the happy idea of the committee on silver, and was immediately taken up by it. Still the young man had some doubts as to the committee's decision, and he finally embarked his small capital in it with a good deal of hesitancy."

He first took out a patent, and then visited one of the largest novelty manufacturers in the country. He showed him he had a bonanza and immediately made a contract with him for 1,000,000 buttons and pins to be made in the shape of the silver daisy.

The design as the official emblem. The Democrats also gave the silver daisy as a campaign emblem. The button has been only on the market a few days, and already more than 100,000 have been sold, and the demand exceeds the capacity of the factory. They are a perfect representation of the silver sentiment, and a gold center made of solid silver and gold and calculated to be the emblem of the sentiment of the war, but also a beautiful piece of jewelry.

FUSION AT TACOMA.

Democrats, Populists and Silverites to Make a Divvy.

Tacoma, Aug. 10.—How the state Democratic, Populist, and free silver Republicans will divide the nominations between them at Elensburg this week is wholly problematic. The three conventions will assemble Wednesday and a general fusion will be attempted. If the Populists get the governor, the plan of some of the few Populists is to divide the rest of the state officers between the Democrats and Populists. But the Populists and Democrats demand the legislature and a congressman for the silverites. The nomination for governor, the two last named being Democrats, Senator Spurre will rest in Spokane tomorrow and it is believed that he will attend the Elensburg convention as a champion of silver.

CHOYNSKI WILL FIGHT.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Joe Choyinski says he is willing to meet Alexander Gregg, the heavy weight champion of the Pacific coast, on Sept. 2 next, or on any time thereafter instead of two months hence, if a permit can be obtained. Choyinski says he signed to meet Mr. Auliffe, because that seemed to be the surest proposition in sight. The most diseased date for which a permit can be granted is September, and the supporters are now enjoying a vacation of six weeks, during which time no permits can be issued. Choyinski is exceedingly confident he can knock out Gregg in eight rounds, and says he will bet $250 he can do it.

THE HAWAIIAN LOAN.

The Government Wants Three Million and a Half Dollars.

Honolulu, Aug. 2, by steamship Peru, via San Francisco, Aug. 10.—P. C. Jones, ex-minister of France, leaves for San Francisco to close the refunding loan. He expects to sell nearly three and one-half millions worth of Hawaiian government bonds bearing a four per cent interest. His contract with this government allows a discount of 5 per cent, and he will receive a commission of 2 per cent. Mr. Jones is given until Nov. 1 to float the bonds. He expects to dispose of them either in New York or Boston.

Letters have been received giving the testimony of an eminent man in Vienna concerning the final disposal of her body off the natives last year. They give as a final verdict the opinion that the visitation was genuine Asiatic cholera.

Consul Mills received nothing by the last mail from the friends of Kate Fleets concerning the final disposal of her body off the natives last year. They give as a final verdict the opinion that the visitation was genuine Asiatic cholera.

A letter from George Riddle says that Mr. Kohlman, of the Chicago Times Herald, will pay all debts of the estate, and would provide a monument for the grave.

The military trial of Capt. John Good has been concluded, but the court has not reached a verdict. During the trial a man named H. G. Rhodes, an employee of the government, testified that he sealed the fences surrounding the government house and removed a sign from a holdup and then sent it through the mail to President Dole. He claims to have performed this feat at night while the army was on guard. His story, though generally discredited, may result in a reorganization of the military force.

Among the passengers on the steamship Peru, which arrived last night from Honolulu, were Mrs. Sanborn B. Dole, wife of the president of the Hawaiian republic.

HOW TO GET PROSPERITY.

It is not astonishing that Mr. Thurston had a large audience Saturday night.
Special trains were run from the towns in the neighborhood of Duluth,
and round trip tickets were sold at very low rates, of which many people naturally took advantage. Hundreds of visitors residing in the city were attracted by his fame as a public speaker, and also by their desire to hear him speak of the great question which is practically the sole issue in this campaign.

Mr. Thurston started out by referring to iron ore and lumber as two great industries upon which Duluth depends.
Then he said:
"What will bring the greatest demand for iron and lumber? The greatest prosperity of the Union. The demand for iron depends upon the extension of the railway systems, the construction of great buildings in our cities. The demand for lumber depends upon the construction of buildings everywhere. It does not depend upon the people of the United States alone. It depends upon the people of the world. If the people are out of employment and money has gone back into the banks and the purses of the people, you will find that building stops and that the people are no longer planning extensions in the lines of enterprise."

But Mr. Thurston failed to state any remedy for the present state of affairs
when there is but little demand for iron and lumber and when building operations and railway extensions are practically suspended. The only plan he proposed was that the existing single gold standard be changed to a double gold standard. He stated that a little over one year ago, in his address to the Nebraska state legislature, acknowledging his election as United States senator, Mr. Thurston himself said: "We are not realizing financial prosperity under existing gold monometallism, and it is worth while to try the experiment of a return to bimetallism." Yet, as a panacea for our national ills, Mr. Thurston proposes today a continuance of the policy, under which, he said in 1895, "we are not re-realizing financial prosperity." So long as the present currency system remains in force, so long will enterprise be paralyzed, manufacturing will be closed or run on short time, the producers will be unable to secure fair prices for their products, building operations will not enjoy prosperity.

On the other hand, the restoration of bimetallism by opening the mints to the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1, as stated money-wise and prosperity throughout the land. I would result in better prices for our wheat and other products, because the price of silver would be appreciated by opening the mints to its unlimited coinage. When recently a candidate for senator, Mr. Thurston directed special attention to this statement made by himself in July, 1895: "It is a fact, which should not be overlooked by statesmen,
that the price of American silver and the price of American wheat reached low water mark on the same day." This because the true, the restoration of silver money would raise its price, and wheat prices would rise with it.

No man will deny that agriculture is the backbone of this country. When the farmers are prosperous, the whole country is prosperous. Better prices for wheat would mean prosperity for the farmers. The money they would receive would speedily go into the channels of trade, and there would be a revival in every branch of business. The farmers would have money to buy timber and build new houses and barns and they would buy it. They would spend more money with the country merchants, and thence it would go into the hands of the wholesalers and the manufacturers.

The increased business of the latter would mean more buildings to accommodate it—consequently, a further demand for lumber. The same causes would produce an increased demand for iron, and the mine owners would sell more ore and they would increase their output, thus giving employment to more miners, and being put in a position to pay them better wages. There would be some of the happy results of the restoration of bimetallism, of a return to the free coinage of gold and silver. It is the remedy which the "silver men" offer for the present depression. What remedy does Mr. Thurston offer? Nothing but the continuance of the present gold standard system under which, as he has already admitted, we are not realizing financial prosperity. Mr. Thurston can hardly expect the lumbermen and the iron miners of St. Louis county to vote for a continuance of a system which he has admitted himself has been a failure
as a producer of prosperity. They want a change from the present conditions,
and the free coinage of silver is the only change that promises a return of prosperity.

SOUND AND STABLE MONEY.

Mr. Thurston's speech must have been a disappointment to those who went to hear him in search of arguments that would guide them in reaching a decision on the money question. In this "campaign of education" he contributed nothing in the way of argument that would aid any man in deciding his attitude towards the proposition to restore bimetallism in this country. Mr.
Thurston admitted that the United States has been on a gold basis since 1873, and could not point to any argument conceding this undoubted fact, which is frequently denied by other supporters of the gold standard, and for not claiming,
as some others, including Congressman McClary, falsely do, that we have had the gold standard since 1853. Neither did Mr. Thurston deny that the demonization of silver was secretly accomplished, without the knowledge of the people and nearly all the members of congress, when the act of 1873 was passed. He could hardly have denied this, because in July, 1893, he said:
"Our mountain ranges produce a metal
which until a few years ago, was money of the world wide over. Silver was one of the standard coins of the United States from the birth of independence until its demonization crept into the statutes of congress, either by mistake
or fraud."

"No dollar," he said Saturday night,
"can be sound which is not worth as much a few weeks from now as a week ago, or which is shrinkable in value."
Every bimetallist, every believer in the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver will agree to that. The bimetal-list would also admit that silver is not sound which can appreciate in value or which is shrinkable in value. A sound, stable and flexible currency is what the country needs. In a letter to Jay Burrows in July, 1893, Mr. Thurston said: "But let us restore the law
which made silver legal tender for public, private and private. Let us give the right to any man to deposit, the bullion in the treasury and receive for it certificates redeemable in silver coin,
and the grand problem of an adequate,
flexible and stable currency is solved."
This is what the Chicago platform declares for. This is the great principle for which Mr. Towne is contending.
The repeal of the law of 1873, which demonetized silver as standard money,
and the repeal of all similar laws since
passed, would restore bimetallism,
would open the mints to the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 as standard money, and would furnish a sound and stable currency.

There is no denial by Mr. Thurston of the fact that gold has appreciated since 1873. There is not an economist of note in the United States who does not admit this. The people know that, 1873
was nearly as hard a year as this
country ever experienced, as a result of the contraction of the currency. A treasury department circular, issued July 1, 1896, says: "Circulation per
capita, $21.90; money per capita, $22.26.
Thus it is seen that the per capita circulation in 1896 is only $3.06 greater
than in 1873, and the population is 30, 000,000 greater and the business of the country has increased many times.
In 1892 the circulation per capita was $24.44; money per capita, $26.21, a greater amount than today. This amount was procured by the Bland-Allison act and the Sherman act, which are the only recent legislation for increasing our money. By the repeal of those laws, all methods of increasing the circulating medium have been removed. If we had free coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1, there would be a healthy way to increase our money
to meet the demands of business and the present depression, caused by a contracted currency, would be succeeded by a revival of business, a return of enterprise and general prosperity.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Why don't you accept the advice of your employers as to how you should vote? They are more competent than you to decide what is best for their business and best for their country. This was the gist of Mr. Thurston's remarks to the workmen. He might as well

1. The cause of this change was the closing of the Indian mints. This shows that the fall in the gold price of silver has been due to the demonetization of silver, and how can it be seriously argued that a vast country like the United States, with such a boundless exporting capacity, cannot, by accepting free coinage at 16 to 1, place the two money metals on a parity and thus establish a sound and stable American currency good all the world over?

Mr. Thurston said himself in 1893:
"I do not doubt the demonetization of silver in the United States would speedily and certainly appreciate the price of silver, not only in this country, but throughout the world." He even went further and said it would be better to buy gold at a premium to settle foreign balances than to pay higher prices in human labor and human suffering. The dollar because of the adoption of the single gold standard. Thus the claim of the free silver men is supported by Mr. Thurston's own statement, that free coinage would equalize the purchasing power of gold and silver and provide a sound and stable currency. Mr. Thurston said in his speech Saturday night:
"What we want is a money that has a fixed and stable value."

It has been shown conclusively that the gold dollar is not fixed or stable in value. It has been proven that under bimetallism prior to 1873 we had a sound, stable currency. Why not open the mints to both gold and silver as prior to 1873 and return to a sound,
stable and flexible currency?

CIRCULATION PER CAPITA.

Mr. Thurston laid much stress upon the fact that the money in circulation in Mexico is but $5 per capita, while in the United States the amount per capita is $22. "It will scarcely be necessary for me," he added, "to compare the condition of the free silver countries with our own." It is astonishing that a public man of Mr. Thurston's standing should descend to such unfair and misleading assertions before a mixed audience. The idea of comparing a half-civilized country like Mexico with the United States is absurd, and even dishonest on the part of a public speaker.
The amount of money required for the transaction of business in Mexico is necessarily small, and no comparison with the amount required in the United States, where the business transactions
maintain themselves, is possible.

It is of importance, however, to the people of this country that they should have an ample supply of sound, stable standard money. That they have not an ample supply is evident to every man in the country. Money is scarce. There is no denying this fact. And this scarcity is due to the contraction of the currency by the adoption of the single gold standard in 1873. The process of contraction has been steady. We have a little more money in circulation now than there was in 1873, but the increase is very small in comparison with the increase in the population. As Mr. Thurston said three years ago, "the country grows fast that the demand (for money) increases almost by multiplication." It is also true, as Mr. Thurston said on the same occasion, that "an adequate circulating medium adds to the relative value of the dollar and cheapens the relative value of everything else. Every debtor must work harder to get his money to meet his obligations than he otherwise would. At such times the millionaire gamblers of Wall street can so corner all the cash in sight as to jeopardize the credit of everybody else." This is what has happened, and it is the cause of the widespread depression today in all lines of business. The circulating medium is inadequate, and the money brokers of
Wall street and elsewhere have cornered all the cash in sight. The remedy
is to throw open the mints to the free
and unlimited coinage of both gold
and silver as standard money and thus
provide an adequate currency which cannot be cornered.

A YEAR OF DEPRESSION.

Mr. Thurston said the last year the Republican party was in power was "the most prosperous year in American history." He must think the most prosperous year was 1895, the year of depression. It was a year of depressed business and was filled with labor strikes as a result of the reduction of wages by manufacturers whose business had been curtailed. In 1892, the year of the monetary crisis, occurred the great Homestead strike, when workmen were shot down by Pinkerton thugs in cold blood. There were during that year 10,444 failures, with total liabilities of $14,041,167, and in the following year, when the McKinley tariff law was still in force there were 6,524 failures, with liabilities aggregating $34,000,000.
Mr. Thurston should not forget that the workmen have as good memories
as have United States senators or railway corporation lawyers, and they know
well that 1892 was not a prosperous year
for them.

The Herald's reference to the denunciation by the goldbug press of the portion of the Democratic platform which condemns the imprisonment of Prisoners of War, is a very curious reference. The goldbug press has for Bryan, Lind and Towne. Such prominent Germans as Senator Geissel, J. L.
McPherson and a score of others who might
be mentioned are doing yeoman work for Bryan, Lind and Towne. In every town in the United States there are men who are doing yeoman work for Bryan, Lind
and Towne. The goldbug press has
for Bryan, Lind and Towne. Such prominent Germans as Senator Geissel, J. L.
McPherson and a score of others who might
be mentioned are doing yeoman work for Bryan, Lind and Towne. In every town in the United States there are men who
are doing yeoman work for Bryan, Lind
and Towne.

Mr. Thurston says all our debts were contracted on a gold basis, and it would be repudiation to pay them in any other medium. The circulating medium is inadequate, and the money brokers of
Wall street and elsewhere have cornered all the cash in sight. The remedy
is to throw open the mints to the free
and unlimited coinage of both gold
and silver as standard money and thus
provide an adequate currency which
cannot be cornered.

As Mr. Thurston tried to impress upon his audience the idea that there plenty of money for the needs of the country, it may be well to present a few figures on this point. In 1873, our circulation per capita was $18.04, money
per capita $18.58, population, 41,677,000.
In 1897 the circulation per capita was $21.90, money per capita $22.26, population, 47,398,000. The people know that 1873 was nearly as hard a year as this
country ever experienced, as a result of
the contraction of the currency. A
treasury department circular, issued
July 1, 1896, says: "Circulation per
capita, $21.90; money per capita, $22.26.
Thus it is seen that the per capita circulation in 1896 is only $3.06 greater
than in 1873, and the population is 30,
000,000 greater and the business of the

TAUGHT BY THE BOSS.

The Memphis Range, Judge Morris was too busy with his official duties to begin a joint debate with Charles A. Towne until after Sept. 1, but somehow he finds time to make a speech to the workmen. He has been speaking almost continuously since the meeting of the workmen. Time when the judge expressed the opinion that it was beneath the dignity of a man on the bench to make stump speeches. But the Republican bosses have taught him better.

IN FAVOR OF COINAGE.

Buffalo, Wright county, Journal, (Rep.).
There seemed to be a difference of opinion amongst the head officers of the board
excursion here Saturday, as to the prevalent sentiment of the workmen. Some of them thought the majority sentiment was in favor of free coinage. Others said the company was in favor of the gold standard and they thought the majority of the men would also. The men, so far as we could learn from the talk, appeared to be largely in favor of free coinage.

WERE NOT GARBLING.

Mr. Thurston charged that the extracts from his letters and speeches, published in The Herald on Saturday, were garbled. He said the same thing was done at Minneapolis, and that those extracts were published by the Democratic committee. The true statement is this.
The Herald published Mr. Thurston's speeches in 1893, 1894 and 1895 entirely on its own responsibility and no committee, Democratic or otherwise, had anything to do with their publication.

Furthermore, these extracts were not garbled, and Mr. Thurston knows it.
The Herald does Mr. Thurston to find a single instance of garbling. The sentences were given entire, without the omission or addition of a word, and if presented in connection with their context would not vary in meaning in the slightest degree. The Herald has many more similar statements made one, two and three years ago by Mr. Thurston.

The extracts published Saturday were taken from a letter written by Mr.
Burrows to Jay Burrows in July, 1893;
from a letter written by Mr. Thurston on July 7, 1893, to George Guntion, editor of the Social Economist, New York, and from a speech delivered by Mr. Thurston to the Nebraska legislature in 1895
when he was elected to the United States senate. Mr. Thurston naturally is averse to having these letters and speeches published now, because they are filled with statements and arguments which are diametrically opposed to his attitude now in defense of the single gold standard.

Mr. Thurston, in his campaign for election as United States senator, advocated the free and unlimited coinage of the American silver product, and in his address to the Nebraska legislature stated explicitly: "I am in favor of American bimetallism, and in this the United States should lead the world."

The campaign has opened sufficiently to reveal this as the policy which is to be pursued by all gold standard advocates.
Advocates of gold everywhere and particularly in the United States, have been inspired as to the policy to be pursued, and henceforth are to say that "the silver sentiment is pretty strong while ago, but it is subsequently the silver sentiment is pretty strong as asserting itself, etc."

able to maintain the wage scale, as to ask them to let their employers dictate

The people of Duluth, as they read of the terrible heat in New York, Chicago, Kansas City and other places, accompanied by scores of prostrations and human deaths, feel thankful that they live in such a mild and equable climate.
Duluth is the finest summer resort in the country.

The Republican campaign book, to be issued this week, is said to contain a quotation from Maj. McKinley's tariff speech. Why do not the compilers insert a quotation from Maj. McKinley's speech in behalf of the Bland bill for the free coinage of silver?

Mr. Bryan lives in a congressional district that is regarded as a Republican stronghold. Mr. Thurston says that Mr.
Bryan will not carry it this year. This may be true, but it is worthy of note that each time Mr. Bryan ran for congress in that district he was elected.

Senator Thurston read The Herald
very carefully on Saturday evening.
This was shown by his frequent references to its columns.

people as were in the rest of the procession.

Why is Gold Standard Egypt
So Wretched?

St. Peter Free Press: Most always when the friends of a single gold standard feel constrained to present an object lesson to the American workmen, of the wretched condition of people living in countries being on a silver basis, they invariably refer to Mexico as the land par excellence whose financial condition necessarily is deplorable, producing class to a life of misery. Apparently reliable statistics are frequently presented for the purpose of proving the most abhorrent assertions. These are the papers of which we have a right to expect better.

The latest attempt in this direction is published in the Times-Herald and sheet reproduced in many other papers. Among other things we are informed that a Mexican cabinet maker has to be content with less than half of what he would be able to make if he were on a silver basis.

Washburn, who has been connected with the News Tribune for several months, and was formerly with The Herald for nearly a year, has left the service of the former, and associated himself with John L. Is Strong Everywhere.

Attorney F. H. Cutting has just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., and Norfolk and other points in Virginia. Mr. Cutting says that there is a strong silver sentiment at all points he visited, and that the capital there were eight points of view on which Mr. Cutting was traveling in various parts of the country. In all of them the overwhelming majority was in favor of silver to three for gold, and in the three counties for gold being non-committal, saying he did not make up his mind on the question.

Would Be Valid.

The council will probably take action this evening on the question of rejecting the bids on the force main pipe from Lakewood to Lester river. A resolution rejecting all bids was presented to the council last Monday evening, and was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to the power of the council to take such a step. It is understood that the opinion, which will be transmitted to the council this evening, is that such a resolution would be valid.

Stole Some Knives.

Two men were discovered by Officer Johnson, late Saturday evening, taking knives from a show case in front of Kruschke's hardware store, on Superior street, near Fourth avenue west. The officer's attention was attracted by the noise made by the thieves in breaking the glass. The officer gave chase, and the men separated, one going up Fourth avenue west, and the other down the same thoroughfare. The latter was captured at Michigan street. He gave his name as John McCoy. None of the knives were in his possession, but several were scattered along the sidewalk. The man who escaped is supposed to have carried off a number. McCoy's hearing was set for this afternoon.

Representatives of the Properties Agreed on Comparative Valuations Today.

List Was Reported to the Board of Equalization This Afternoon.

Taxes Under These Valuations More Than Under One Cent Law.

With one or two exceptions the mines of St. Louis county were represented this morning when the board of equalization met in the county commissioners' office. The mining men without exception expressed a willingness to pay a fair taxation on their property, and most of them practically admitted that the taxes heretofore paid under the 1-cent per ton tax were too low. The board wanted them to name figures which they would regard as a fair valuation upon which to base the taxation. The mine representatives did not want to do this. They had come with the idea that whatever figures they might give would be overvalued. After a short discussion they all concluded that what both sides desired was a reasonable taxation. The members of the board considered that they knew nothing of the comparative value of the mines, and that the mining men were far better able than they to fix the ratio at which the different properties should stand toward each other. Finally a request was made that the mine representatives get together and return figures for the valuation of the mines for purposes of taxation on a basis of 40 per cent of their actual value.

To this the representatives of the mines agreed, and those engaged in actual mining operations retired to court room No. 3, while the representatives of undeveloped mining properties occupied a jury room. The meetings were executive. After sessions of half or three-quarters of an hour the two meetings were reconvened. J. B. Cotton occupied the chair, and after some discussion a scale of values was adopted. Messrs. Bacon, Agnew and Gridley were appointed a committee to inform the board of equalization of the results of the meeting. The board adjourned to the court room where the meeting was held, and Chairman Bacon, of the committee, made a report. He said that in arriving at the figures the amount of ore in the mines was taken into consideration. The figures which the committee had shown a very material increase over the valuations returned by the assessors. They make a total valuation of $2,644,400.

A LARGE INCREASE.

Last year," said Mr. Bacon, "the tax upon the mines was $100,000. This year it will be about $55,750."

The committee also showed that the mine representatives would now submit a list of about $55,750, which would result in the ratio which the mining men had fixed.

Commissioner Miller replied that undoubtedly it would; that the main object of the board had been to get the valuations of the mines on a basis of comparative values. He asked that the mine representatives return the lists of the mines, and that the assessors make a date as possible, so that in case the valuations should not be satisfactory, they would have time to notify the owners to appear and show cause why the valuations should not be changed.

On Saturday, when the work of the board closes, it was taken as the sense of the meeting that these returns be made by Wednesday. Messrs. Oleott and Armstrong, who had been appointed, and a meeting of the committee with the board was set for 2 o'clock. The object of the meeting was for the committee to present the mining men's reasons for fixing the valuations on the basis of 40 per cent of the value of the property, and to deliver the bonds. The company therefore claims damages in the sum of $10,000.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Bob Hubbard Held Up By Three Men.

Bob Hubbard, a lumberman, was held up and robbed on St. Croix avenue shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the thieves getting $250, all the money on his person. Hubbard had started to breakfast with a man named Howe, a friend of his. The latter had gone ahead to the sidewalk from the stairs at the rear by which they had descended when Hubbard was intercepted in the entry leading to the staircase by three men, one of whom threw his arm around his neck from the rear, a la garotte, while the other two rifled his pockets. The victim at once reported the matter to the police, and, soon afterward, Officers Smoller and McNamara, who were on duty, arrested three men giving their names as James Mullin, James McMain and Robert Donovan. The detectives think the names are fictitious. Detective Donovan has the record of one of the men, and it is said to be a bad one. They will have a hearing tomorrow on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree.

LIND AND TOWNE.

Will Probably Speak Here Next Saturday.

Arrangements are being made to have John Lind, candidate for governor on the silver and Democratic tickets, and, and Chairman Towne, speak here this week. At first it was expected to have the meeting Thursday evening, but it is more likely that it will be held on Saturday evening. The place where it will be held has not been selected as yet. The cost of the meeting will be the largest of the campaign. A parade will be given previous to the meeting, and from the income of the parade the cost of the meeting will be a turn out of several thousands. The reason the Republican party is making a party of it is because the laboring men will not turn out, and they are the ones who always make a party of it. The Workingmen's Silver club is arranging now to get the men of the laboring men to turn out, almost every union man in the city out. The Central Towne club and the Democrats will turn out en masse.

CLAIMS LARGE DAMAGES.

Duluth Trust Company Sues the City.

The Duluth Trust company today began a suit against the city to recover $400,000 damages alleged to have been sustained because of the failure of the city to keep its contract for the purchase of $800,000 of water bonds. The complaint recites that on Aug. 4, 1891, the citizens voted an issue of $800,000 of bonds to build an independent water plant. On March 12, 1894, the city opened bids and accepted that of the Duluth Trust company. The company deposited a $10,000 certified check. Shortly afterward W. S. Woodbridge began a suit to determine the validity of the bonds, and they were declared legal. It is alleged that the city has failed to deliver the bonds. The company therefore claims damages in the sum of $10,000.

The Relations Between Maj. McKinley and Mark Hanna Are Disturbed.

The A. P. A. is Said to Be the Cause of the Difference.

Hanna Has Reviled the Association and McKinley Angry at Him.

Washington, Aug. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Private letters just received in the city indicate the existence of strained relations between Maj. McKinley and the manager of his presidential campaign, Messrs. Stanley &

If it said, has become the condition of affairs, that the difference threatens to have an important bearing upon the result at the polls. The cause of this estrangement again brings into prominence as a political factor the American Protective association. Prior to McKinley's nomination, a committee appointed by that organization waited upon the major at Canton and obtained a satisfactory assurance that he was not unfriendly to them. They desired they should occupy a more advanced position, but expressed themselves as willing to accept the concession made.

Since the campaign has gotten under headway, according to the story, Mr. Hanna has become convinced that Mr. McPherson will not be elected.

McKinley's attitude toward the A. P. A. officials is a factor in the opinion that he believes in its principles, and as a consequence he has already practically accepted the viewpoint of the organization and speak of contemptuous purposes, at the same time declaring that his candidate for the presidency would not be responsible for the actions of the organization. This, in turn, was very offensive and distasteful to the officials of the association. They immediately called Maj. McKinley's attention to the utterances of his representative and requested him to make certain that there should be no mention of the offense and asking him to make a stronger declaration in favor of the organization. He refused to do so, and therefore been required of him, in order to receive its support.

On the 12th of January, 1900, the following was questioned authoritatively: "that considerable correspondence has followed between the A. P. A. officials and Mr. McKinley, and that Chairman Hanna has been informed of the same." Mr. Hanna: "The trend of these communications has been to the effect that Mr. McKinley severely censures Mr. Hanna and his organization, and that in the face at this time an unpleasant subject, and plainly stating, it is said, that Mr. Hanna is a villain, a scoundrel, a traitor, or wishes in the action he had taken."

On the contrary, Chairman Hanna is rather surprised to hear that Mr. McKinley having proclaimed his entire independence of the organization and seems determined to persist in the course he has outlined, and that he is not in sympathy with McKinley's wishes in the matter. As a consequence much friction is said to exist between the two men, and that Mr. McKinley has been very unkind to his manager. If the A. P. A. officials should insist on Mr. McKinley giving a public declaration of his friendship, his friendliness for their organization, it is impossible to predict what the outcome of the vote at St. Louis may be or its effect on the vote at St. Paul.

PROBABLY ACCIDENTAL.

Young Pile's Death May Not Be a Suicide

Washington, Aug. 11.—The police thus far have failed to secure any clue as to the mystery surrounding the death of A. H. Pile, a son of ex-Representative Pile, of California, who has been in temporary charge of the silver national headquarters. When the body was found in the Potomac, the shoes and hat were stolen.

and these are being searched for. There is a theory that he was the victim of knock-out; draps at some of the up-river gambling resorts, but this is in part overcome by the fact that his silver watch was found on him. It is stated that Pile had been drinking when last seen on Tuesday night a week ago. He was fond of games of chance. While no evidence of foul play has been found, the vidence of foul play has been found, the police have found nothing to indicate that the dead man committed suicide. They are generally inclined to the belief:

that his death was accidental. It may be because of the excessive heat, he went over to the river front and removed his shoes and hat in order to get cool and accidentally fell overboard.

Washington, Aug. 11.—An evening Star special, from Raleigh, N. C., says: Senator Butler has called a meeting of

he national Populist committee, to be held at Washington next Tuesday, to decide on the immediate opening of headquarters at Washington.

ALL TOWNE MEN.

What J. W. Reynolds Found Up at Eveleth.

Attorney J. W. Reynolds, of Cotton, Ditch & Reynolds, went to Eveleth to organize a McKinley and Morris club last week. On Saturday he was seen on a train coming toward Duluth. He was hunched up in the corner of a seat looking rather drowsily out of the window. His face wore a puzzled, baffled expression—a good deal such a look as must have rested during the nature of the celebrated Indian chief who tried to lasso the first locomotive he ran across.

"What success, Joe?" inquired the friend. "I looked at his questioner a moment, as if wondering whether the latter had an inkling of the facts or not. Finally, evidently concluding that the questioner had received a tip, a virtuous resolve to tell the truth, which had heretofore been kept in his mind as a disagreeable alternative, only possessed him."

"Say," he said, confidentially, "I'll be sent if I can't get a miners' list a Towne man. Club! No!"

STYKER, MANLEY & BUCK. HAS SUSPENDED. Security Bank Did Not Open This Morning.

The Security bank of Duluth, was closed this morning. The following notice on the door conveyed the information:

"Heavy and unlooked-for withdrawals of deposits and the impossibility of making speedy collections have compelled us to close our doors to depositors. We have no fear regarding the ultimate safety of their money."

Security Bank of Duluth. W. W. Palmer, V. P. W. Lardner, Cash. NOTICE.

"Is my official capacity as superintendent of the state of Minnesota, I have taken possession of every book, records and assets of every description of this bank, as provided by law."

Public Examiner and Ex-Officio Superintendent of the State of Minnesota. The announcement was received with great surprise, and during the forenoon there were large numbers of people gathered outside the Security building talking over the suspension. On all sides there were expressions of regret. Messrs. Fitch and Lardner stand very high in the estimation of all who are in the city, and it is a feeling for them. Mr. Fitch said this morning:

"Our deposits have declined heavily during the past few days, but with no indication of a run, or even of withdrawals for any but ordinary purposes. On Saturday we decided to ask the First National and American Exchange banks for assistance. They responded promptly and the details were being arranged yesterday. Last evening we were surprised to learn that what we supposed was known only to ourselves and the two banks mentioned had in some way leaked out and was being commonly talked of in the street, and had even been telegraphed from Minneapolis and St. Paul to the board of directors. In the opinion of Mr. Fitch, the American Exchange bank, and Mr. O'Brien of the First National, and Mr. Kenyon, the superintendent of banks, this was almost certain to precipitate a run, and it was decided that in justice to all depositors we should not open today."

No statement is made as yet to the condition of the bank. Mr. Kenyon is in charge, and it is probable that ultimately a receiver will be named. According to the superintendent of banks, the deposits were about $250,000. They are probably less than $200,000 now. From the information at hand it is reasonable to believe that the depositors will get 100 cents on the dollar, and that a goodly number will be retained by stockholders. The bank in ordinary good times would be said to be in good condition, and the extra funds being in the past three years, more stringent now than ever, has made it impossible to immediately convert securities into cash.

The city of Duluth has about $500 on deposit in the bank and the county $40,000. The city of Duluth has about $500 on deposit in the bank and the county $40,000.

"THE CHINOOK."

It Proves to Be a Delightful Entertainment.

Clara Louise Thompson appeared at the Pavilion last night with her unique entertainment "The Chinook," and it drew a very large crowd of curious people who had but vague ideas of what they were going to see. They were not disappointed with what they did see, for it is certainly a very enjoyable entertainment.

"The Chinook" is a very pretty little story of love and finance in which a Colorado gold mine figure. It is the work of Alden J. Borthen, Jr., of Minneapolis, and the characters in the play are taken by Minneapolis people. Each scene and incident of the play are fully portrayed by life-size and life-like photographs which are projected upon the screen, and the audience sees the comings and goings of the actors in the play while Miss Thompson reads the story.

Miss Thompson's reading is excellent. Her voice is clear, well modulated and under splendid control, and the various emotions of the story, from comedy to pathos, are well portrayed by the pictures and by Miss Thompson's reading. The pictures are life-size, and excellent. The scenic portions from the Western mountains, canons and rivers to New York interiors, are even much better than the best work of the scenic painter. Those who acted out the story before the camera have acted well, and almost every move and every change of position has been caught by the photographer and transferred in a strikingly life-like manner to the lantern slides, hence to be thrown upon the white background and accompanied by Miss Thompson's charming elocution.

The entertainment is charming and it carried the audience with it with all the force of a well-acted drama. The management would do well to provide enough seats to care for the crowds. Last night but few people got the seats they paid for, as most of those who came took the seats most agreeable to them, regardless of what their tickets called for.

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT. Gun Club Tournament Will Begin Tomorrow.

At 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning the fourth annual tournament of the Gun Club will begin on the new grounds at Thirty-first avenue east, and it will continue all day tomorrow and until Thursday afternoon. Large numbers are expected from the ranges, Superior, the Twin Cities and other places. There will be a large number of prizes, and the tournament is certain to be a pace maker.

There will be eight events tomorrow of a total of 125 targets, four events being at known angles and four at unknown angles. There will be a match-challenge shoot at twenty targets for which there are twenty-two valuable prizes consisting of merchandise. The number of events with an equal number of targets is in the nature of a sweepstakes, the prizes being made up from the entry fees, added to the club and distributed under the Rose system.

The grounds are at Thirty-first avenue east and London road, and a may be reached by Lakeside cars. Transportation will be furnished for guns and shells from the club to the grounds, where dinner will be served. A DOUBLE DROWNING. George Brandt Drowned in Attempting a Rescue.

George W. Brandt and Louis Page were drowned in the bay at the foot of Rice's Point near the approach to the Northern Pacific bridge at 12:30 this afternoon.

Page, a boy of 14, fell into the water, and his struggles for life were seen by Brandt, who is the engineer at the draw in the Northern Pacific bridge. Brandt immediately jumped from the bridge to the bay's rescue, but before those on the bank could reach them both sank or lost time.

Brandt's body was soon recovered, but up to a late hour this afternoon the boy's body had not yet been found. A thorough search was being made, however, and with hope of success.

Coroner Eklund went to the scene of the drowning, but there is not likely to be an inquest. Both Page and Brandt lived on Rice's Point, Brandt residing at 1023 Rice avenue.

JUDGE LOCHREN RULES. Decision in the Great Western Plant Case.

Judge Lochren has rendered a decision in the case of H. B. Moore, receiver of the Great Western Manufacturing company vs. E. C. Fowler et al. He finds that the $50,000 in bonds held by the Electric corporation of Boston, and issued by the Great Western Manufacturing company, are valid and that as they are secured by a trust deed running to the American Loan and Trust company of Boston, they are a first lien on the plant and property of the company described in the deed, the property at Duluth. The $20,000 now issued are decided not to be lien on the property.

The action was brought by the receiver to set aside the bonds issued by the Great Western Manufacturing company on the ground that they were issued contrary to the insolvency law of Minnesota and to give a preference to the Electric corporation of Boston.

Continued a Week. The preliminary hearing of Bruce Campbell charged with having absconded with funds belonging to Sam Atkinson, his employer, was continued to Aug. 20 by Judge Boyle in the municipal court today. The continuance was granted on the request of Attorney Crocker for the defendant, that certain necessary witnesses may be secured.

James Johnson, Ben Fredrickson and Sven Joerle pleaded guilty of drunkenness and were fined $10 and costs each. Johnson paid and the others went up. James Roach, Jas. Williams and John McGregor, box-car loaders, pleaded guilty of trespass and were let off with suspended sentences. John Dolan said he had been drunk, but promised to do so no more. He was let off.
